Disarmament Unit Will Snub Reds' Threat

82-Nation Group To Meet Shortly After Suggestion By U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The 82-nation disarmament commission is expected to meet on Aug. 15 or shortly thereafter despite boycott threats by the Soviet Union and other Communist nations.

This was the prospect today after the United States suggested that the most constructive step the commission could take would be to call for a resumption of the deadlocked East-West disarmament negotiations.

In a letter obviously intended to quiet fears of neutral nations that the commission meeting would only heighten existing East-West tension, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the commission chairman:

"It is not the intention of the United States at this meeting to request the Disarmament Commission to make decisions regarding specific measures of disarmament.

"We believe that the most constructive outcome of the disarmament commission meeting would be a resolution which registers the common desire for prompt resumption of negotiations."

Lodge, the Republican nominee for vice president, plans to resign his post as chief U.N. delegate after taking part in the disarmament proceedings.

Mexican Ambassador Luis Padilla Nervo, the commission chairman, is receiving replies to a letter asking members of the commission how they felt about a meeting on Aug. 15.

Lodge said the United States "is fully in accord with the proposal that the Disarmament Commission should meet on or about Aug. 15."

President Eisenhower had proposed originally that the commission meet on Aug. 5.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev objected. He said disarmament should be taken up by the 82-nation U.N. General Assembly, which opens on Sept. 20. He suggested that the heads of governments be invited.

The United States reaction to any world summit conference on disarmament was cool.

Hearing Is Continued In Salem Murder Case

LISBON — A preliminary hearing on a charge of second degree murder against Frank W. Fish, 56, of Salem R. D. 5 was continued Friday by County Judge Luther Donbar of Salem at the request of defense counsel.

The hearing was set for next Friday at 9:30 a. m. and bond was set at $5,000 by Judge Donbar.

The Egypt Rd. truck farmer and factory worker, father of 13 children is charged with the shotgun slaying of his son-in-law, Wyman Capps, 37, of Alabama, Wednesday afternoon at the Fish home. Capps ignored warnings not to enter the Fish home in an intoxicated condition, the defendant claims.

City Man's 2 Children Die In House Fire

An East Liverpool steelworker made funeral arrangements today for his two children who died in a West Virginia fire that claimed two other youngsters and a teenager Friday in Tyler County.

Walter (Bert) Ferrebee of Beaver Creek, an employe of the Mackintosh-Hemphill division of the E. W. Bliss Co. in Midland, had the sad task. His wife suffered burns in the predawn blaze that razed two homes in the tiny community of Shirley, near Middlebourne, W. Va. The town is several miles below Moundsville.

Ferrebee resides in the Beaver Creek area while working in Midland and his family formerly lived with him here. His wife, Wanetia, about 24, and his two children, Walter Ferrebee Jr., 9 and Dorma Ferrebee, 8, had just returned to Shirley Wednesday after a visit with him.

The mother is in "poor" condition today in a New Martinsville hospital with burns of the entire body.

Ferrebee's niece, Mary Belle Wadsworth, 19, died in the fire, along with Janet Dotson, 4, and Billie Dotson, 1½, children of another niece, Mrs. Daisy Dotson. All were visiting with Mrs. Ferrebee at the time.

Mrs. Dotson is also hospitalized with severe cuts of the body received when she attempted to rescue the children from the home after she ran outside and screamed for help. All were sleeping when the fire broke out between 2 and 5 a. m. She was badly cut when attempting to re - enter the burning house through a window.

Relatives here were unable to learn complete details of the tragedy. They reported, however, that the fire may have been preceded by an explosion and that Shirley had been struck by a flood on Thursday.

Ferrebee's wife and two children resided with him here until December when they returned to the Tyler County village.

The five victims, as well as the two mothers of the children, were asleep in one room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferrebee.

Ban Nuclear Weapons, Japanese Again Urge

TOKYO (AP)—Japan observed today the 15th anniversary of the dropping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima with pleas for banning nuclear weapons.

Crown Prince Akihito attended and delivered a message at a government-approved memorial service in Hiroshima. Some 30,000 persons attended the rally in Peace Park.

In Tokyo, the Communist-dominated World Conference Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs opened a four-day conference at Tokyo Metropolitan Gymnasium militantly denouncing the United States and its allies as the "force of war."

About 100 police scuffled briefly with 50 extreme rightists who demonstrated against the Red-inspired conference. One policeman was injured and three club-swinging demonstrators were arrested.

Cuba Swings More Solidly To Red Camp

Raul Hails Economic Aid And Pledges Of Military Support

HAVANA (AP) — Raul Castro left no doubt today Cuba has moved solidly into the Soviet economic camp as he welcomed Moscow's aid offers and hurled defiance at any objectors. He also hailed Soviet pledges of military support.

"We don't have to fear an economic blockade," the younger brother of Prime Minister Fidel Castro declared in a midnight speech that ran nearly three hours. "They the Soviets buy all that we sell them and they sell us what we need."

Appearing on Fidel's usual Friday night TV spot, the peppery defense minister aimed a slap at the Organization of American States which is slated to meet Aug. 16 to discuss Soviet interference in the Western hemisphere and other problems.

"We are grateful for and we accept—we accept — disinterested aid of Soviet artillerymen (rocketeers) despite what the OAS says," Castro told a loudly cheering studio audience.

Fresh from visits to Moscow and Prague, he said Soviet and Czechoslovak officials had promised him that all Cuban orders would get top priority. He implied this meant military material as well as other goods.

No strings were attached to Soviet aid offers, he declared, adding that the United States had never given help without demanding concessions.

Castro blasted the U.S. capitalistic system which he said demands that Americans "throw food into the sea" to maintain prices, rather than share it with the world's starving millions.

Frequent bursts of applause greeted Castro's high praise of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the Soviet Union.

Applause also accented Raul's warning that "enemies of the revolution" would soon feel the punch of the ailing Fidel Castro.

"They will understand that we are going to have Fidel around a while," Raul declared.

The younger Castro said the prime minister will address the closing session of the Latin American youth tonight—"naturally making an effort." That indicated Fidel is not completely recovered from what has been described officially as a lung infection.

Key Leaders Wait Return Of Congress

Politicking Slated To Figure In Session Beginning Monday

By The Associated Press

Political chiefs began to arrive in Washington today for a bob-tailed congressional session expected to feature plenty of political hay-making along with legislative harvesting.

The November election will be in the minds of senators, who convene Monday, and congressmen, who meet a week later, to take up business left undone before the break for the political conventions.

Among those returning was Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, who flew into Washington after a campaign tour to Hawaii and back by way of Seattle, Wash.

Major attention will be focused on the Senate, over which Nixon presides and where the membership includes Democratic presidential nominee Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who is majority leader.

The Senate also includes the national chairmen of the two parties—Sen. Thruston B. Morton (R-Ky) and Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash).

Members of both parties have called on their opposition to avoid political squabbling or grandstanding and attend to business during the session. But no one figures there won't be politicking.

Asked about reports that Republicans might introduce bills based on the Democratic platform, especially its civil rights plank, Johnson said "I think there are always some Republicans who want to play politics."

Nixon has said the session could "turn into a donnybrook." He called on both parties to take a responsible approach.

He has also indicated doubt that much will be accomplished at the brief session.

Kennedy has discounted talk of Democratic attempts to enact portions of the party platform. To

Mauro Lacks One Vote For Judgeship Bid

Atty. Guy L. Mauro of Salem fell one vote short of securing the Democratic nomination for a seat on the 7th District Court of Appeals at a district Democratic meeting Friday night in Youngstown.

With 15 votes cast, Mauro received 7 with C. D. Lambros of Ashtabula polling 6. The remaining two votes were cast for Atty. Horace G. Tetlow, vice chairman of the Mahoning County Democratic executive committee.

The meeting was recessed until next Saturday night when a new vote will be taken on the three nominees.

Ten of the 13 counties comprising the district were represented at the meeting, but some counties had only one representative. Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, chairman, and Sharon Quigley of East Liverpool, secretary, represented Columbiana County.

The law specifies the party chairman and secretary as members of the district committee. However, some secretaries did not attend, it was reported.

Mauro has been backed for the post by Columbiana County Democratic candidates and officeholders and reportedly has the backing of party leaders in some other counties.

He also is being considered for the interim appointment to be made by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to serve until a successor to the late Judge Elmer T. Phillips is qualified. DiSalle, however, is expected to appoint whomever the district committee selects as its nominee for the unexpired term.

Key Congolese Ministers To Attend U.N. Showdown

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Three Congolese ministers decided today to follow Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to New York for Sunday night's U.N. Security Council showdown on dissident Katanga Province.

On the way they plan to confer with Premier Patrice Lumumba, now touring west African countries. He may abandon his trip, turn around, and return to New York for the council session.

The decision to send the ministers to New York was reached at an emergency Cabinet meeting after Hammarskjold had scrapped plans to send U. N. troops into Katanga, the rich province which has declared its independence from the Congo.

Hammarskjold's top troubleshooter in the Congo, Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, warned after a visit to Katanga that sending U. N. troops to the province might provoke bloodshed.

The Congo ministers going to New York are Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko, Deputy Premier Rene Mwambe, and Thomas Kanza, the Congo's minister-delegate to the United Nations.

Although leaders of Lumumba's government have been pressing the U. N. to bring Katanga under control of U. N. troops, their reaction to Hammarskjold's backdown on Katanga was mild.

This indicated they prefer to go along with a U. N. solution of the problem rather than risk Soviet intervention—threatened by Lumumba—to restore order.

The view in both diplomatic and government circles is that the spotlight now has turned on Belgium, and pressure will be on Brussels to comply with earlier Security Council resolutions calling for withdrawal of Belgian troops from the entire Congo, including Katanga.

Without Belgian support, Premier Moise Tshombe's Katanga regime probably would collapse quickly.

In his capital of Elisabethville, Tshombe issued a statement saying: "I rejoice to see that Dr. Ralph J. Bunche and, through him, the U. N. have taken cognizance of the Katanga people's

Dag Proposes Action That Could End Rift

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Dag Hammarskjold proposed today that the U.N. Security Council assure dissident Katanga Province that U.N. forces have no intention of taking sides in the Congo's internal conflict.

The U.N. secretary-general declared that such action by the council might well open the door to a speedy settlement of the issue posed by refusal of Katanga Province to admit U.N. forces.

He made the statement in a report to the 11-nation council released here before his arrival from the Congo.

At Hammarskjold's request, the Council has been called into urgent session Sunday night on the Congo crisis.

2 U.S. Intelligence Aides Presumed Behind Curtain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two American intelligence specialists were presumed by the Pentagon today to have gone behind the Iron Curtain.

The two are Bernon F. Mitchell, 31, and William H. Martin, 29, employed since 1957 as mathematical analysts at the National Security Agency at nearby Ft. Meade, Md.

NSA is a supersecret defense unit which intercepts radio signals and works on communications intelligence 24 hours a day. Mathematics is one tool used for breaking secret codes.

The Defense Department broke silence late Friday on the whereabouts of Mitchell and Martin, who mysteriously disappeared June 24.

An official statement said it "must be assumed that there is a likelihood" that the two "have gone behind the Iron Curtain."

It added that an investigation indicated "information in their possession if revealed could be in no way prejudicial to the security of U.S. communications" and neither man had "access to classified information about American weapons or defense plans."

A Pentagon spokesman declined to say whether the pair had other information of value to the Reds, such as on U.S. code-breaking techniques and on NSA operations. Nor would he say what Communist country they might have gone to or by what means.

The statement said the two had worked "in limited areas of communications statistical work."

The department confirmed earlier reports that Mitchell and Martin had been traced to Mexico City and then to Havana.

In Eureka, Calif., Mitchell's father said "I certainly don't believe" the Pentagon's assumption that his son had slipped away to Red territory.

Final Determination Of Legality Of 44 Is Scheduled Monday

A final determination on the validity of signatures on an initiative ordinance asking a vote on a proposed municipal income tax will be made Monday, City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate said today after receiving a ruling from the city solicitor that signatures, whether written in ink, indelible pencil or pencil, are prima facie valid.

With the solicitor's ruling, 44 signatures, originally rejected because the signers used pencil writing, were restored, the auditor said, leaving the total number of prima facie signatures at 894 — 18 more than the minimum required.

However, the auditor explained the final determination cannot be made until Monday to allow time for a check to determine whether the 44 restored signatures meet other legal requirements, such as being registered voters in the city and having signed a petition only once.

When the auditor completed his check Friday afternoon, only 850 signatures remained out of the 1,002 who signed the petitions circulated by an independent citizens' committee.

A total of 152 were rejected for either signing in pencil or not being registered voters, Applegate said.

However, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, acting on the auditor's request, said a check of the Ohio Revised Code failed to disclose any provision banning pencil signatures on initiative ordinances

Liquor Aides Arrest Six In Tavern Raid

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A picked squad of state liquor agents raided a tavern just across the state line from Sharon, Pa., Friday night and arrested six persons.

Led by William Galayda of the Canton state liquor office, the squad raided Radu's Tavern in Brookfield Twp. and found four Sharon youths drinking high-powered beer. Three are 18 years old and one is 17.

A customer, Peter Dutken, 40, of Masury, smashed two ale bottles from which the youths had been drinking when Galayda put the boys and a barmaid under arrest. Dutken fought with Galayda and twice broke loose, smashing glasses of beer on the bar, in an attempt to destroy evidence.

Agents had to call for help from Brookfield Twp. constables.

Mrs. Helen Pushnick, 43, of Masury, the barmaid, was charged with juvenile sales, and Dutken was charged with resisting inspection. He suffered a blackened left eye and a torn shirt in his brawl with Galayda.

Mrs. Pushnick and Dutken were released on $150 and $200 bonds, respectively. They are to appear in Trumbull County Court Aug. 17.

The juveniles were charged with consumption of the high-powered beer. The 18-year-olds, released on $100 bonds each, will be brought to the county court, while the 17-year-old boy was taken to the county juvenile home

Mauro Lacks One Vote For Judgeship Bid

Atty. Guy L. Mauro of Salem fell one vote short of securing the Democratic nomination for a seat on the 7th District Court of Appeals at a district Democratic meeting Friday night in Youngstown.

With 15 votes cast, Mauro received 7 with C. D. Lambros of Ashtabula polling 6. The remaining two votes were cast for Atty. Horace G. Tetlow, vice chairman of the Mahoning County Democratic executive committee.

The meeting was recessed until next Saturday night when a new vote will be taken on the three nominees.

Ten of the 13 counties comprising the district were represented at the meeting, but some counties had only one representative. Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, chairman, and Sharon Quigley of East Liverpool, secretary, represented Columbiana County.

The law specifies the party chairman and secretary as members of the district committee. However, some secretaries did not attend, it was reported.

Mauro has been backed for the post by Columbiana County Democratic candidates and officeholders and reportedly has the backing of party leaders in some other counties.

He also is being considered for the interim appointment to be made by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to serve until a successor to the late Judge Elmer T. Phillips is qualified. DiSalle, however, is expected to appoint whomever the district committee selects as its nominee for the unexpired term.

2 U.S. Intelligence Aides Presumed Behind Curtain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two American intelligence specialists were presumed by the Pentagon today to have gone behind the Iron Curtain.

The two are Bernon F. Mitchell, 31, and William H. Martin, 29, employed since 1957 as mathematical analysts at the National Security Agency at nearby Ft. Meade, Md.

NSA is a supersecret defense unit which intercepts radio signals and works on communications intelligence 24 hours a day. Mathematics is one tool used for breaking secret codes.

The Defense Department broke silence late Friday on the whereabouts of Mitchell and Martin, who mysteriously disappeared June 24.

An official statement said it "must be assumed that there is a likelihood" that the two "have gone behind the Iron Curtain."

It added that an investigation indicated "information in their possession if revealed could be in no way prejudicial to the security of U.S. communications" and neither man had "access to classified information about American weapons or defense plans."

A Pentagon spokesman declined to say whether the pair had other information of value to the Reds, such as on U.S. code-breaking techniques and on NSA operations. Nor would he say what Communist country they might have gone to or by what means.

The statement said the two had worked "in limited areas of communications statistical work."

The department confirmed earlier reports that Mitchell and Martin had been traced to Mexico City and then to Havana.

In Eureka, Calif., Mitchell's father said "I certainly don't believe" the Pentagon's assumption that his son had slipped away to Red territory.

State Police said Bevly apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Bevly was attached to headquarters of the U.S. Army Service Unit at Camp Drum.

Liquor Aides Arrest Six In Tavern Raid

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A picked squad of state liquor agents raided a tavern just across the state line from Sharon, Pa., Friday night and arrested six persons.

Led by William Galayda of the Canton state liquor office, the squad raided Radu's Tavern in Brookfield Twp. and found four Sharon youths drinking high-powered beer. Three are 18 years old and one is 17.

A customer, Peter Dutken, 40, of Masury, smashed two ale bottles from which the youths had been drinking when Galayda put the boys and a barmaid under arrest. Dutken fought with Galayda and twice broke loose, smashing glasses of beer on the bar, in an attempt to destroy evidence.

Agents had to call for help from Brookfield Twp. constables.

Mrs. Helen Pushnick, 43, of Masury, the barmaid, was charged with juvenile sales, and Dutken was charged with resisting inspection. He suffered a blackened left eye and a torn shirt in his brawl with Galayda.

Mrs. Pushnick and Dutken were released on $150 and $200 bonds, respectively. They are to appear in Trumbull County Court Aug. 17.

The juveniles were charged with consumption of the high-powered beer. The 18-year-olds, released on $100 bonds each, will be brought to the county court, while the 17-year-old boy was taken to the county juvenile home

South Vietnam Becomes Another Crisis Region

By JOHN SHAW

South Vietnam is becoming another crisis area for the United States.

Successful revolutions in Korea and Turkey have given new hope to foes of President Ngo Dinh Diem, another one of Asia's "strong men."

The United States has poured about a billion dollars worth of aid into South Vietnam during its five years of independence. The argument has been that the money has been well spent because Diem, though undemocratic, has lined up his country solidly with the West.

Now, this argument is being questioned. Events in South Korea and Turkey have shown that an undemocratic, unpopular regime, even if it can muster hundreds of thousands of troops, is of little help to the free world.

THE THREAT to Diem, too, does not come from high school and university students, as was the case in Korea and Turkey. The student movement here is not a particularly combustible one.

Rather, the chief opposition to the Diem regime comes from the country's elders and professional men. Eighteen of these, including former cabinet members, lawyers, doctors and educators, recently broke their silence to petition Diem with a list of reform demands.

They demanded a free press, a genuine parliamentary opposition, an inquiry into government corruption, and the sacking of Diem's relatives and favorites from top government posts.

Diem's "family rule" has concentrated power in a few hands. One of his brothers is a provincial governor, another is an ambassador, and a third is the chief cabinet adviser and head of Diem's secret police.

One of the President's sisters-in-law is vivacious, Paris-educated Madame Ngo Nhu, 40, who is the leader of the parliamentary "independents" and an influential businesswoman.

Diem's growing opposition is not Communist. The 18-man group now seeking permission to form the "progress party" agrees with Diem's alignment with the West. It supports his principles but opposes his strong-arm methods.

THE GROUP obviously is inspired by events in South Korea and is banking on U.S. pressure forcing Diem to concede the country more freedom. So far Diem has shown no sign of yielding. His only comment has been that civil liberties are impossible while Communist guerillas are operating in the country. The charges of graft and nepotism he ignores.

This approach is the cause of South Vietnam's vicious circle. Diem cannot win popular support while he acts as a dictator and lets the economy stumble along on exports of rice and imports of dollars.

And, according to Diem, martial rule by his expensive, 250,000-strong army and 50,000 police is essential until the 5,000 Reds are forced to withdraw to North Vietnam.

But, as the French armies found in their marathon war in the same territory, it is practically impossible to root out every guerilla lurking in the rice fields and jungles.

The problem seems chronic—while the north is Communist there will always be Red infiltrators in the south.

Western observers are more concerned about Diem's lack of peasant support than any of the top-level graft here in the capital. After five years in office, Diem remains a remote figure to the country's 12 million peasants.

HIS ELECTION successes — his party holds 78 of 123 assembly seats — seem to reflect ruthless ballot trickery rather than mass support.

The "opposition" consists of Madame Nhu's self-styled independents. Six non-Communist Leftists were elected but they live in fear of being bundled off to "political re-education" camps.

The one Leftist who managed to defeat a Diem candidate has never been allowed to take his seat.

The tragedy of Diem is that he is a man of undoubted ability. His administrative experience goes back to 1933 when at the age of 32 he became minister of the interior under the French colonial regime.

Diem's constant fears of being toppled by subversives if he relaxes his police rule seem exaggerated.

He has no reason to fear a student uprising — the country does not have the potentially explosive universities of South Korea. Nor does Diem have the nightmare of other Asian leaders — an army coup. The top military ranks are packed with his favorites.

The situation in South Vietnam is that Diem is ruling — as Fhee did — without peasant support and in the face of the mounting resentment of the country's educated class.

This has led not only to criticism of Diem but also of the United States — which appears to support Diem's police rule in exchange for his loyalty.

Pale Faces Turn Red At Indians' Question

THEY'VE GOT A POINT... ...

CHEROKEE, N. C. (AP) — On the wall in the tribal headquarters of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians there is a framed placard with this comment:

"Before the white man came to this country there were no taxes, and the women did all the work. How can the white man improve on that?"

No answer to the question appears.

Pepper, then a costly spice, was used frequently as money during the Middle Ages.

The Dotson children and Miss Wadsworth were from West Union.

Mrs. Dotson and the girl were visiting the Ferrebee family. Neither of the women's husbands was at home.

Mrs. Dotson said she awoke, felt the heat and smelled smoke.

Mrs. Dotson related from her hospital bed that she heard cries of the children inside the burning home while she was screaming for help.

Mrs. Dotson, said she broke a window to escape.

Two neighbors, Edwin Spencer and Archie Merritt, answered the women's frantic calls but were unable to enter the burning home.

By the time they arrived, flames had engulfed the Ferrebee home and had spread to a house next door from which 12 occupants were routed.

Faulty wiring caused the blaze.

Double funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at the Cedar Grove Church of Christ in Tyler County for the two Ferrebee children.

Evangelist C. D. Plum will conduct the services and burial will be in the church cemetery. The Furbee Funeral Home in Tyler City will be in charge.

Funeral services for the Dotson children and Miss Wadsworth were incomplete but may be held Sunday.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I avoid sweeping up scraps from the floor after sewing?

A. When sewing in a room where there is a carpet or rug, a large sheet tacked on the floor will catch threads and scraps. It is quickly and easily taken up when the work for the day is finished, and makes sweeping and dusting unnecessary.

Q. How can I satisfactorily mend a tear in a kid glove?

A. Buttonhole around the edge of the tear before drawing together. Then oversew the buttonhole. The repair will be substantial.

Q. How can I keep pie meringue from falling?

A. The meringue will not fall if one-fourth teaspoonful of baking powder is added to it.

2 Youths Held In Kidnaping

CATLETTSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Two youths were in jail today facing grand jury action on federal charges of kidnaping a 17-year-old Ohio farm boy at gunpoint.

The youths were identified as James Dale Brewer of Wolfe County and Sammy Tolson of Morgan County, both 19.

They were arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Thomas Burchette Jr. at Ashland shorly after their capture Friday and bound to federal court convening at Jackson in October. Both were placed under $5,000 bond.

Special FBI Agent Wallace R. Hoaglund of Louisville said the two approached Kenneth Eugene Brose last Wednesday while Brose was repairing his car along the highway near his home at Lynchburg, Ohio.

They forced him to drive to a spot near Rexville, Ky., Hoaglund said, where they took him to a barn and tied him to a plow.

Brose worked himself loose in about an hour and called police.

Officers and FBI men captured Tolson at a friend's home at Daysboro. They found Brewer four hours later hiding behind a farm building near Daysboro.

A rifle was nearby when Tolson was captured, and Brewer was armed with a shotgun, pistol and knife, Hoaglund said.

Tolson was taken to the West Liberty jail while officers continued the search for Brewer. While the search was in progress, Hoaglund said officers received a report Brewer had remarked to an unidentified person that he was on his way to West Liberty to kill Tolson.

Color Draws People, Bachelor Discovers

LEBANON, Va. (AP) — Charlie Fields, a 66-year-old bachelor likes people and colors, and he uses the latter to get the former.

Weary Worker Tries Boat, Whether Oar Not

WESTVILLE, N. J. (AP) — For a year Shirley Wagner, 36, battled the traffic between his home here and his job at an iron company across the Delaware River.

Then he decided to commute in his brother's outboard motorboat. The first day he made excellent time on the mile and a half trip, arriving at the plant 10 minutes early.

But at quitting time he went back to the tree where he tied the boat. The craft's new $100 engine was missing.

He told his story to detectives, picked up his oars and rowed home.

Congo

resolution not to accept anarchy and chaos."

In propping up Tshombe and frustrating the U. N. effort to restore order in the Congo, Belgium has taken the risk of making the Congo an important issue in the cold war.

The Soviet Union is eager to get a foothold here, either by providing massive technical assistance to the tottering central government or sending Communist troops into the Congo operation.

Hammarskjold has scrupulously observed the terms of the U.N. resolution and speedily accumulated a force of predominantly African troops. This force now is in a position to guarantee order or very near it. Only the intransigence of Tshombe bars the way.

Bunche became convinced of the danger after conferring in Elisabethville with Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe who vowed he would use force to keep out U.N. troops.

Hammarskjold's decision not to enter Katanga and replace Belgian troops now patrolling the province came amid ominous rumblings from two quarters.

The Soviet Union drummed out a warning that if the U.N. fails to get all Belgian troops out of the Congo, forces should be sent in from other countries "which would be ready to contribute."

And ministers of the central Congo government talked loudly of "sending our troops to Katanga" if the U.N. keeps stalling.

Government sources here said four Congo ministers and possibly Premier Patrice Lumumba will fly to New York to press demands in the U.N. that the Belgians get out of Katanga.

Observers said Hammarskjold's backdown on Katanga might have averted bloodshed, but they predicted it might spell trouble for the United Nations on several counts.

"We are back where we started," said one U.N. diplomat glumly. "Anything may happen now."

U.N. officials grimly awaited reaction of the Congolese government which has insisted the new republic's No. 1 problem is to keep copper-rich Katanga in the fold.

They recalled a warning by Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba that his government would consider radical measures if Belgian troops are not out of his country by the time he returns Monday.

Lumumba, on his way back from an aid-seeking mission to the United States, Canada and African countries, previously made gestures toward asking the Soviet Union for military help to oust the Belgians.

Angry East-West debate was expected to erupt when Hammarskjold goes before the Security Council. The Soviets have served notice they will press their demand that U.N. troops be yanked out and other forces sent in unless the Belgians are ousted at once.

Those Aren't Melons, Those Are Cucumbers

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — State Rep. Howard Reppert of Des Moines relates this one:

While in Dalhart, Tex., recently he stopped in a super - market, saw a display of huge watermelons, and asked a clerk: "How much are those Iowa cucumbers?"

"I'm afraid you have made a mistake, sir," said the clerk. "Those are Texas peas."

57,354 Employes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has issued a report covering the branch assignments of the 57,354 employes on the state's payroll. The Mental Hygiene and Correction department topped the list with a total of 15,100 employes. Ohio State University ranked second with 11,197 and the Highway Department third with 9,715.

Everything's Patched Up In Cement Case

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Joe Nelson is going to get a 1948 model automobile to replace his 1946 car which Bob Porter filled with wet concrete.

Also, he's going to get another load of concrete for the driveway he plans to build.

Joe's old car is going to be displayed by the cement company with a sign reading, "We pour cement anywhere."

Joe and Bob shook hands and agreed to let bygones be bygones.

The happy ending wound up today an incident which started when Nelson ordered the concrete and it was delivered by Porter. Nelson wasn't home. He claims he cancelled the order several hours before the delivery. The company says he didn't. Porter suspected a joke because he had just won a $20 bet from Joe.

"I guess I just blew my stack," the truck driver said. He dumped the load—all six tons of it—in the back seat of Nelson's car.

Mrs. Nelson commented: "We'd have money enough to buy a new car if we charged admission for all the people who come by to see the car."

Ronnie Stewart, Porter's boss, saw possibilities in the situation and came up with the peace plan, agreeing to finance the whole thing. He isn't even mad at the driver, explaining, "Im not sure I wouldn't have done the same thing myself."

He did give Bob a talking to, though, about dumping the cement.

Said the driver: "The boss told me, 'Porter—you know this isn't company policy.'"

Dog Has Cause To Bark As 19 Puppies Arrive

SILVER CITY, N. C. (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sheppard's hound dog, "Crybaby," gave birth to 17 puppies, they began checking to see if it was a record.

If so, it was broken the next day when two more were born. Hound dog experts here agreed that if it isn't a record, it's close to it.

Petitions

and referendums in municipalities.

The code outlines the procedure to be followed but does not specify how the names of the petitioners should be signed, Cooper said. It specifies ink or indelible pencil must be used on petitions for constitutional amendments and state statutes, he added.

Under state law, the city auditor is charged with determining the validity of signatures on initiative municipal legislation. If he finds there are sufficient signatures to warrant a ballot place, he certifies the question to the County Election Board.

The election board has "no voice" in the question, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, explained, pointing out it has no alternative but to grant a ballot place after the auditor certifies the question.

The petitions asking a vote on the proposed municipal income tax for the third time in three years were filed with Applegate July 30, the deadline for filing since the auditor also is required to hold the petitions for public inspection for 10 days.

The deadline for submitting the issue to the election board is Wednesday at 4 p. m.

The move for a new vote was launched July 21 by the citizens' group headed by Thomas J. Doland, Orchard Grove Ave. insurance agent.

Similar to two other ordinances repealed by the voters, the new measure would provide for a tax of 80 cents on each $100 of earnings, business profits and other income.

Tax Foes Will Ask Council Spending Plans

A committee will be named to check with City Council's finance committee to learn how proceeds from a proposed municipal income tax will be spent, the Nonpartisan Committee Against the Wage Tax decided at a meeting Friday night at City Hall.

Larry Finlay, chairman of the dissenting group, said the committee has not been selected.

The committee's findings will determine whether the nonpartisan group will actively oppose the tax, Finlay said.

Some 30 attended the session, including Thomas J. Doland, Orchard Grove Ave. insurance agent who heads the independent citizens committee seeking to place the income tax on the ballot for a vote at the Nov. 8 general election.

The need for new industries, the proposed city freeway and urban renewal were included in the discussion, Finlay said.

Little Boy And Big Fish Make Interesting Tale

DESTIN, Fla. (AP) — To 11-year-old Terry Burnett, it was a challenge when a 500-pound shark cruised by the pier where he was fishing.

The boy was outweighed 10 to 1 and had only a light rod with a reel carrying less than 200 yards of 50-pound test line. But he tossed his bait in front of the monster, which took it, and the battle was on.

For an hour and a half, they tugged back and forth. Three times the shark dragged the boy the 650-foot length of the pier. When the shark approached the pilings, Terry yelled "stomp" and the crowd of onlookers would stamp their feet on the boards to scare the monster back to open water.

Finally, the youngster was able to hold the shark's head on the beach long enough for other fishermen to drive home snatch hooks. It took 10 men to drag the boy's catch onto the sand.

Benson Now In Paris For Food Expert Talks

PARIS (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson arrived in Paris today for conferences with French officials about the effects of the Common Market on U.S. food exports.

Benson said: "My primary interest on this trip is to determine how the agricultural proposals of the European economic community will affect prospects for agricultural trade in the years ahead."

Benson is worried that the proposed common tariff wall for the Common Market nations—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—will result in discrimination against U.S. agricultural exports.

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany claimed today an American intelligence agent had sought refuge there.

DiSalle Takes Law Into Own Hands

We believe Gov. DiSalle, whose sincerity we admire, is far off base in continuing to take Ohio's criminal penalties into his own hands.

He has commuted the death sentence of another Ohio killer and saved him from the electrocution a jury decreed for him.

The score for Mr. DiSalle in his year and a half as governor now stands: 3 saved from death, 2 permitted to die, 2 executions held up pending further study.

In the latest case, where the governor changed execution to a life sentence for an 18-year-old Cincinnati slayer, he gave as his reason:

". . . The fact that Huston Nelson (the slayer) committed an injustice against society will not be erased by society's compounding the injustice by taking his life."

THAT IS GOV. DiSALLE'S opinion, to which he is entitled. It is not the opinion of many Ohioans who believe this state should have a death penalty not only as punishment for murder but as a deterrent to further murder.

It is not the opinion of many past legislatures which over the years have considered, and refused, abolition of the death penalty.

We respect Gov. DiSalle's strong opposition to the death penalty, even though we disagree with it. We do not believe he has the moral right to take the law into his own hands, as he has done in the cases of three Ohio slayers, and supersede the decisions of juries which heard the evidence and courts which reviewed it and upheld the verdicts.

Ohio's governors have been given the power to change certain penalties inflicted by juries in criminal cases. That power was bestowed not with the idea that the governor should decide every case himself, but with the idea that some executive authority must exist to right any wrong that might be discovered.

It is perfectly proper, and necessary, for a governor to delay an execution when a court appeal is pending. It is perfectly proper, and mandatory, for a governor to act in the event of a miscarriage of justice in an infrequent case where it may be proved that an individual was wrongfully convicted.

Aside from instances such as these, a governor should leave justice to the courts where it belongs.

UNDER OHIO LAW, almost every technical advantage is held by the criminal. In many sections of the criminal statues, the individual's right is placed first over society as a whole. Perhaps this is as it should be; our point is that when a jury convicts an individual of murder and decrees the electric chair the evidence against him must be overwhelming.

One man whose life has been spared by Gov. DiSalle was found guilty of killing a robbery victim. Another killed a woman friend and her suitor, who was his rival. The third, most recently, shot to death a 61-year-old woman in a drug store holdup at Cincinnati.

Unconscionable murders like t h o s e should not be taken lightly in Ohio. It now is possible for the 18-year-old spared Cincinnati youth to go free when he is 38 years old.

Hundreds of thousands of Ohio store employes and millions of Ohio men and women deserve better protection against wanton murder than Gov. DiSalle has been giving them.

Gov. DiSalle is perfectly within his rights to campaign for abolition of the death penalty. But until it is abolished by the people of Ohio he should not take the law into his own hands and abolish it, in effect, by his individual action.

Peacemakers More Busy Than Blessed

If there should be a miracle and things quieted down in the Republic of Congo, Dag Hammarskjold and Ralph Bunche would be almost as well known as John Kennedy and Richard Nixon. But a miracle is unlikely.

These two peacemakers, like all the peacemakers who have preceded them and all who may follow them, are involved in a nearly hopeless task. History is against them.

Their aim is to avert bloodshed by maintaining order and security. Hammarskjold as secretary-general of the United Nations and Bunche as undersecretary for special political affairs are the world's ablest team of peacemakers. They have dedicated the best effort of their lives to cooling tempers and patching up differences that have flared into violence.

It is their job to bind up pride that has been wounded, bridge the chasm of languages that separates mankind and find ways to trip up men of bad will who want to run headlong into violence and bloodshed.

They must match wits with some of the world's most ingenious minds bent on the single purpose of creating as much misunderstanding and hatred as possible. In the same exercise, moreover, they must be able to sidestep the immovable obstacles of thick-headedness, misunderstanding and malice.

AT EVERY STEP they must face accusations of complicity, hypocrisy, duplicity, or subversion. It is a foregone conclusion that no one will try to understand what they are doing because in all the centuries that men have talked piously about peace they have had no peace in their hearts. Peacemakers never have been understood. Warmakers always have been dominant.

They have plotted and planned endlessly to get the upper hand over rivals, either by cunning or frontal assault. They have done this in the clear certainty that sooner or later the rivals would react with violence, and when that happened they always have shouted an accusation of warmongering, to divert attention from their provocation.

This is the international tangle of bad faith, stupidity, malice, plotting and hypocrisy that Dag Hammarskjold and Ralph Bunche are confronted with whenever it falls to their lot again to walk between the firing lines and ask for a chance to make peace.

Blessed are they? Not by a burst of epithets and a barrage of abuse. Not by a dozen accusations of high treason, unwarranted meddling in affairs that are none of their business and a stream of personal slander.

Busy are they? Busier than all the peacemakers who ever looked dispassionately at the tempers, misunderstandings and assaults of wrong-headed men and decided to offset them with logic, understanding, sympathy and reasonableness. They are but two among several billion, so let no one sneer at them for ineffectuality.

There's Action In August

If you think bout it, August is action.

Not the definitive action that goes with the beginning of spring, summer, fall and winter but the preparatory action that goes before the beginning of the beginning.

In August, children are prepared in subtle ways for education, such as being reminded that it won't be long before they will be expected to knuckle down and return to a semblance of sanity.

Adults, too, are prepared in subtle ways for forthcoming rigors, such as being urged to take their vacations if they haven't taken them already, because it is going to be a hard winter and everybody will be expected to pull his weight.

Birds push their second crop out of the nest with instructions to fly or be eaten by a cat. Humans who hope to be under shelter before the fall rains begin to issue hurry-up orders to builders, who don't take the trouble to pass on the word because no one intends to be caught in the rain.

Whatever sweet corn is going to be eaten will have to be eaten in August. Whatever is going to be enjoyed of other remaining summer delights must be enjoyed before Labor Day, when Summer is officially over.

On the surface, August is a time of somnolence, with dogs sleeping under bushes and locusts buzzing in the maples.

But beneath the surface a riptide of action is moving, piling up energy that will be unleashed after Labor Day to carry civilization through to Christmas and renewal of the lease in January.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The bill-posting industry will display famed art masterpieces beside roads of America to offset criticisms of anti-billboard groups. Okay here. It should be helpful to find Rubens, Titain and da Vinci out there getting equal time with the gasoline, toothpaste, floor wax and beer trades. Rembrandt, Raeburn and Degas playing peekaboo among the pickel, hair oil and kidney pill tycoons will do no harm.

It may be confusing at first to realize that Mona Lisa is not the name of a new frankfurter.

Speeding over modern thruways the tourist passes billboards so swiftly one message blends into another. On recent trip from South we swear we saw a sign "Near This Spot General Meade Began the Attack on Joe & Mabel's Clam Fritters." Now we can expect following: "Rosa Bonheur's Horse Fair for Steaks and Chops." . . ."Stuart's Washington Slept at Hillcrest Motel With TV in Every Room." . . . "Whistler's Mother 100 Yards Ahead." . . . "For a Cooling Drink Try Frans Hals Man With Beer Keg." . . ."Homer's Herring Net For Fish & Chips Just Around Bend." . . . "Slow Down For Sharp Curve and Michaelangelo's Ganymede." . . . "Daumier's Washerwoman Just Over The Hill" and "Gainsborough's 57 Varieties." But we will revolt if we see "Detour for Hogarth's Rake's Progress." . . . "Audubon's snowy Egret for Best Chicken Dinner." . . . "Titian's Motel 300 Yards" or "Take First Left for Fragonard's Hamburgers."

NEITHER THE DEMOCRATS nor Republicans have a word in the plank about ending hay fever. . . .Our idea of a confident man is a scientist or engineer operating at Cape Canaveral without his fingers crossed. When you go fishing these days you are apt to run into a school of skin divers and hook a big one.

Cuba offers cut rates to U.S. students to come there and study the revolution. Ya mean Castro is a bargain at any price!). . .North Pole is reported shifting. Its slip is showing.

Many an American thinks he can cross those "new frontiers" of Senator Kennedy in a $3,000 car with foam rubber upholstery and a gasoline credit card.

TV program called "Hollywood Sings" featured Boris Karloff, but we dodged it in fear Boris would frighten the piano player and make the piano scream for help.

"Attorney General Sees Gains In War On Crime," says a headline. He's wearing blinkers.

STEVENSON and Kennedy held a conference on Jack's 52-foot yacht. They will go before the voters with the better sea chanties.

Exasperating thing about summer is that it seems to be over before you master the trick of getting the collapsible lawn and porch furniture adjusted properly.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

"Every subject sooner or later is linked to some basic factor called faith," says Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, Milbank Professor of Religion and Director of the Chapel at George Washington University.

George Washington is a secular university that recognizes its responsibility to the moral and spiritual development of its 10,000 students.

Faith is promoted through the Department of Religion, dormitory discussion and campus organizations of Protestant, Jewish, Catholic, Orthodox and Unitarian organizations.

Visiting speakers peg their talks to faith — like Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, on "Religion and Atomic Power;" Undersecretary of Labor J. T. O'Connell on "Religion and Manpower;" Maryland Gov. T. R. McKeldin on "Religion and Political Power."

"The University," says Dr. Sizoo, "believes education must interest itself not only with facts but with values which give meaning to life. Apart from spiritual sensitiveness learning is sterile and artificial."

Unjustified Slap At Great American

By Raymond Moley

As might be expected, the professorial speech-writers employed by Candidate Kennedy are rich in historical allusions. They are, as is unfortunately true of some of their profession, quite ready with wisecracks and phrase-turning. The Kennedy acceptance speech is an omen of things to come. Seemingly, the pundits ransacked the books for unfortunate people bearing the name of Richard.

The speech reminded its hearers that Richard I was the successor to the very forceful Henry II. But Kennedy might have added that if President Truman's advice had been taken and he had waited a few years and Nixon had failed, he might have succeeded this Richard. History tell- us that the successor to Richard I was the weak and perfidious John who was compelled to sign the Magna Charta.

Even Richard Cromwell was resurrected — a man remembered only by those high school students who are fresh from their lessons. He succeeded Oliver Cromwell for a brief moment.

AS THE CAMPAIGN gets hotter and more personal, we may expect the Kennedy pundits to resurrect for comparisons with Richard Nixon two other historical figures; the unfortunate Richard II, and the reputed monster, Richard III. So far as the latter is concerned, recent historical evidence reveals that Richard III was not a bad man or a bad king.

But in hitting at Nixon by a sneer at Benjamin Franklin, politics gave way to a gross injustice to the greatest, most distinguished, and most gifted American of his time. Kennedy said that Nixon's "speeches are generalities from 'Poor Richard's Almanac.'"

It happens that under the name "Poor Richard,' Franklin as a famous, self-made refugee from his native Boston at the early age of 26 began his series of almanacs in 1732, the year Washington was born. It added greatly to his reputation and his fortune.

His advice was homey, sound, and useful. The wisdom and the aphorisms became household words for more than two centuries. It would be interesting to have Candidate Kennedy explain wherein he differs from Poor Richard's advice. It went into such subjects as thrift, paying one's debts, and patriotism.

But it was wisdom not just from a country bumpkin. For the Almanac was written by a man who, still younger than Candidate Kennedy, indicated that he had read widely in the riches of world literature — Dryden, Pope, Prior, Swift, Bacon, La Rochefoucauld. There are sayings in the Almanac from the Latin, Spanish, French, German and Welch.

With the money Franklin gained from his writings, he bought time for profoundly important research and contributions in electricity which gave him respect in the scientific circles of Europe. There also were time and money for a vast public service. He spent nearly 30 years abroad in the service of his country and not only made the success of the American Revolution certain by his negotiations with the French, but won respect for his country everywhere.

THE IMPLICATIONS in all the Kennedy speeches that no one who was born before 1916 can project a vision of the future is denied by the later life of Franklin.

His vision of the future gave something to Americans that no other leader could equal — in science, diplomacy, statesmanship, in the preservation of liberty, and social progress.

When at the age of Kennedy's father, Franklin returned from unavailing efforts to conciliate the British with America, he helped draft the Declaration of Independence, a constitution for Pennsylvania and the Articles of Confederation. Then the elderly man was again sent abroad, where he concluded a treaty of alliance with France and, in 1783, dominated the peace-making with England.

In the movement for a new Constitution, he was a great force and as a delegate to the Convention in 1787 this venerable man of 81 contributed more than any other member to the reconciliation of sharp differences and the wisdom in fundamentals which made a new nation a success. While Franklin was not a major contributor to the language of the Constitution, it can be asserted that without him the Convention could not have succeeded.

It was not only bad taste but bad politics flippantly to demean Franklin in order to thrust at an opponent. I once heard a student tell a professor of English that he just didn't like Shakespeare. The reply was, "Young man, you do not judge Shakespeare; Shakespeare judges you."

Magnetic Growth

By Thomas R. Henry

Earth's magnetic field exerts a definite effect on growth processes of plants.

Experiments allegedly demonstrating this are reported by Drs. A. V. Krylov and G. A. Tarakanova in the Journal of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, as translated by the Department of Commerce.

Not only is magnetism a significant factor in plant growth, the two Russian scientists say, but it may have some significance in explaining other growth anomalies, such as animal cancer.

"The effect of the earth's magnetic field," they report, "as well as the effect of permanent magnets on the vital activities of plant seedlings is most pronounced when the seeds are oriented so that their embryo roots are directed toward the magnetic poles. Swelling of the seeds and further growth of the seedlings takes place in the directions of the magnetic field.

"The phenomenon of magnetotropism, which consists in the oriented growth of a root in the direction of the earth's south magnetic pole, or an artificial south magnetic pole, has been established," the Russians report.

"This phenomenon is accompanied by changes in the rate of growth of both the roots and stem. If the embryo roots of the seedlings are oriented toward the south magnetic pole, growth of both roots and stems is accelerated. If they are oriented in the opposite direction, growth of both is decelerated."

This phenomenon, the two Russians believe, makes it possible to state that magnetic polarity is a fundamental property of all living things. It may be the key, they say, to such phenomena as photosynthesis, genetics, the onset of malignant growths, and the harmful effects of ionizing radiations.

Allies Count, Too

By David Lawrence

Foreign Policy Is A Complicated Matter

When will the American people be given the complete story to supplement the diplomatically and tactfully phrased versions of just how their foreign relations have to be conducted in operating within an alliance? Will the critics, including Senator Kennedy, concede that the President of the United States does not alone make our foreign policy? Or would those who have been pounding away at the administration — as, for instance, Adlai Stevenson, who may be secretary of state if Kennedy is elected — ignore the allies of the United States in making decisions?

David Lawrence

President Eisenhower made a significant speech on this very point at a breakfast held in Chicago during the Republican convention. He spoke off-the-cuff. A stenographic transcript was not immediately available, which is why the talk was probably disposed of briefly in the afternoon papers of that day.

BUT THIS SPEECH of July 27 is of historic importance in outlining some aspects of the process of making foreign policy in these difficult times. Mr. Eisenhower said in part:

"Now here is a point: There is no such thing almost as a bilateral arrangement with two nations—just as your platform makers have to take me into account in a small way (laughter), so does every diplomatic interchange — let us say between Arabia and the United States, or Britain and the United States, or Japan and the United States — it always affects other nations.

"And this is the thing that makes it so difficult to get these nice, clean-cut decisions that so many of our experts — who are not carrying responsibility as some of us do — can develop.

"Just as all international trade is almost invariably a multilateral affair — like when we develop our food-for-peace plan — we have to think how it affects Canada, Australia, the Argentine, and any other wheat or surplus-wheat producing country, or any country that produces the same surplus as we do.

"THIS IS A SERIOUS matter. So it is not merely a matter of saying we have so many bushels we would like to get rid of. Of course, there has to be an exponent on that. But if we do it in unwise ways, we have damaged very fine friends who want to say in the very same corner we are fighting and working for — the freedom of men and the independence of their own countries — and the safety of their own countries.

"In human affairs there is no such thing in vast organisms, at least in human affairs, as nice, clean-cut '2 and 2 is 4' (decisions), and setting it aside and forgetting that one. These are matters of judgment, of long study, of experienced conclusions and, finally, readiness to make the particular decision, no matter though it might be only the least harmful of three or four that are possible."

The Democratic Party strategy of blaming President Eisenhower for every decision of foreign policy shows an unfamiliarity with the difficulties of operating within an alliance.

If the Democrats were candid about it, they would be the first to recall that, although the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff wanted to push the war in Korea to the banks of the Yalu River and pursue enemy planes to their bases in Red China —a military measure known as "hot pursuit" — six of our Allies vetoed the plan.

This decision changed the whole course of history in the Far East. An alliance will at times be as strong as the strongest member of the group, but it often is as weak as the weakest member.

THERE HAS, for instance, been a good deal of criticism voiced in this country from time to time about attendance by the President at "summit" conferences. The point has repeatedly been made that these meetings should not be convened unless adequate preparations have been made in advance and a basis for agreement reached beforehand at another level — that is, between foreign secretaries.

The truth is this is exactly what the Washington government all along favored, but the American people never have been told just why our position was altered. Delicate relations with our Allies were involved.

The policy was changed because Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain came back from a visit to Moscow urging that Mr. Eisenhower go to such a "summit" conference, even though preliminary agreements had not been reached.

It was important for Mr. Macmillan to get the President to go to the "summit" conference. Inside Great Britain the Socialists were hammering away politically at the Prime Minister. The Socialist leaders were opposing the use of American military bases in Britain, which made it look as if Moscow might benefit through a change of government in London.

Whatever the reasons for acceding to the Macmillan request, the President found it desirable to work with the Allies of the United States. If Mr. Kennedy were elected, he would also find that he himself would not be a free agent in determining our foreign policy and that considerations raised by our allies are often a decisive factor.

New European Entente?

By Richard Spong

Western Europe is in the throes of its usual distress whenever another presidential election in the United States paralyzes foreign policy.

Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany and President De Gaulle of France conferred in Paris the last weekend of July. Then Adenauer invited Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain to a conference in Bonn on Aug. 10. The Prime Minister will take with him his new foreign secretary, Lord Home.

These are informal talks, free of the restraints of agenda and communiques. They reflect a new degree of cohesion among the heads of the three governments, for which the United States may be partly responsible.

One authoritative account of the Paris meeting said: "They (President De Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer) have made known their intention of not leaving to the United States alone the entire burden of initiative in dealing with the powerful and dangerous Soviet Union."

It has been reported in the British Yorkshire Post that Adenauer has information from a secret source that the Soviet Union is going to launch a new phase of the war of nerves over Berlin.

A Bonn spokesman at the close of the Adenauer-De Gaulle talks told a press conference that the two "had the impression that without haste but at an appropriate time a reform of the Atlantic organization would serve a useful purpose." There was talk also of a new "body" to align the foreign policies of Western European nations.

De Gaulle has long wanted a greater voice in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization directorate. Adenauer, though promoting an ever firmer understanding with De Gaulle, does not want France to maintain nuclear weapons. These considerations lead the conservative Daily Express of London to speculate that Adenauer will pressure Macmillan to give Britain's H-bomb stocks to NATO, encouraging De Gaulle to forego his own bombs.

The economic phase of the three-way talks (Macmillan is expected to visit the French capital next month) finds the British Prime Minister on something of a sticky wicket. Britain is the organizer and principal backer of the European Free Trade Association or Outer Seven. Jealous of its Commonwealth ties, Britain stayed out of the European Common Market, or Inner Six, for another good reason: Britain was unwilling to sacrifice a measure of sovereignty or European influence to the central trade bloc.

But De Gaulle now is talking about a permanent secretariat for the Inner Six in Paris, while Adenauer cherishes closer political integration for the nations of the Six. So at Bonn Macmillan may find himself literally betwixt the Six and the Seven; either he accepts increasingly closer economic and political ties with Germany and France, or Britain will be increasingly isolated from Western Europe.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

A New Zest For Living

How can anyone feel dull in this exciting, action-packed world? What a pity there are human beings who find their lives uninteresting — for whom life has no sparkle! This is the case with all too many people. If you are one of these, the important thing to realize is that you do not have to stay that way. You have a life packed with excitement and enjoyment. Unlimited reserves of new zest for living are available to us all. I am constantly meeting men and women who have discovered this wonderful fact.

ONE DAY last spring I traveled a couple of hundred miles by car with one of the most enthusiastic, vibrantly alive men I have encountered. The weather that day was curiously changeable, bringing warmth, cool breezes, varying clouds, showers and glorious sunshine in rapid alternation. The countryside was clothed in spring freshness. The road we were following undulated up hill and down dale.

At every turn my companion found some cause for delight. "What is more beautiful....," he asked, indicating the fields we passed. "What is more beautiful than a flock of sheep in a green meadow like that?"

A few minutes later, marveling at long shafts of sunlight cutting down through heavy overcast, he exclaimed, "Looks like a light from heaven, doesn't it?"

And the next moment, with a wave of his hand in the direction of a handsome old brick house set amid stately pines: "Ah! There you have early America at its best!"

NOTICING a little stream splashing down a hillside and under a little bridge, he remarked about the beauty of "clean, cold water surging over clear washed rocks."

Great dark clouds came billowing up from the horizon, and he drew a deep breath of rapture saying, "Just look at the rugged grandeur of that sky!"

At length we stopped for gas. I found myself wondering whether my exuberant friend would find anything to trigger his admiration at the rather ordinary-looking service station.

Sure enough — along one wall of the building three lilac bushes stood covered with lovely blossoms. Now, for me no flower has greater charm than the lilac. Each year I look forward to its springtime blooming. But never have I heard anyone become as ecstatic about a lilac bush as this amazingly zestful man.

"I have seldom met a man with as much enthusiasm as you have. How do you get it?" I asked.

"The springtime is so glorious!" he answered. "Guess I'm having my own springtime too — sort of a spiritual springtime. I feel I have been reborn." He went on to tell me of his new religious awareness and of how he had come to experience God as a living part of his life. He quoted St. Paul's great assertion in the epistle to the Romans: "We should walk in newness of life." One by-product of his new aliveness, he added, was that he now had much more confidence in his ability to cope with life's problems.

WHAT HAPPENED to that man can happen to any of us. And we need to "walk in newness of life" —because, in the natural course of events, to the extent we remain untouched by religious inspiration, the zest and enthusiasm of our youth abate as we grow older.

As we move into adulthood, we tend to become preoccupied with life's difficulties and responsibilities. We easily lose sight of our early dreams. We get tense, anxious, weary. Things lose their sparkle. We grow listless and dull.

But by the power of faith a person can be renewed in such a way that he not only gains new strength for dealing with difficulties, but finds life become for him endlessly scintillating, satisfying and exciting. Would you like to be so renewed?

A great way to open yourself up to this transformation is simply to start reading the Bible. Read it frequently, quietly, receptively. Think about what you read — let it penetrate your deeper levels of consciousness.

The Bible is a challenging book, sometimes a difficult book, but it offers life. It tells us in the 55th Chapter of Isaiah, "Hear, and your soul shall live."

Last year at Berlin I visited the new Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church, a magnificent modernistic structure, a gem of architectural design. What impressed me most of all was a certain disposition of the interior lighting, so contrived that a great concentration of light fell upon the Bible.

How fitting that it should be so! The Bible sends great bursts of light into the darkness that accumulates in our minds. It gives revitalized life. Take deeply of what it gives, that you may walk in newness of life.

A REVIVAL FOR ALL PEOPLE OF ALL CHURCHES

Annointed preaching, gifts of spirit, signs, wonders and miracles.

SPONSORED BY THE PRAYER TEMPLE

A desperate run . . . a frantic slide . . . the feel of the bag against your cleats . . . the belated tag of the shortstop's glove. Then a voice, clear, certain . . . final!

And though the cheers may be laced with hoots and screams of disapproval, you're safe. And nothing can change that fact!

Equally dramatic — and far more important — is the adventure that brings earnest men and women into the Church.

There is a point when we realize the inertia of half-believing. We plunge forward desperately, leaving behind yesterday's skepticism, seeking frantically the Truth that promises meaning and purpose for our life.

Then there's the thrilling moment — the dust of wordly confusion still all around us — when we know in our hearts we have found our faith. And always, above the strains of the organ, even above the clamor of a world unconvinced, there is a Voice, clear, certain . . . final — confirming our Faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Little Leaguers Win, 1-0, Advance To State Semifinals

Get Run In First To Nip Barberton

LEN WALKER

LARRY RADCLIFFE

East Liverpool's Little Leaguers advanced to the state semifinals by edging Barberton, 1-0, Friday night at Massillon behind clutch pitching performances by Len Walker and Larry Radcliffe.

Tom Cloran's American League All-Stars continued their dazzling brand of heads-up baseball to score the game's only run in the first inning on a walk and two Barberton errors.

With each victory moving the locals farther ahead in the state tournament than any other East Liverpool team, the squad now will tangle with Elyria's District 6 champions in the semi-finals Monday night at North Canton.

Should they triumph in the battle for the Northern division title, they would advance into the state finals on Aug. 11 against the Southern division champion.

Walker, aided by Radcliffe who came on in the sixth, limited Barberton to only one hit — a double —and walked only one batter in a sparkling performance.

He struck out seven straight Barberton batters after the leadoff man had grounded out short to first.

The only hit he allowed came in the fifth inning, a double by Barberton's shortstop, Russ Shreiner. His only walk issued was to the first batter he faced in the sixth.

But after losing his pinpoint control in the sixth, when he threw six straight balls, Walker was lifted in favor of Radcliffe, who came on to retire the only three batters he faced on a pop fly to center, a grounder to short and a strikeout in the final out of the inning.

East Liverpool scored its run in the first when Gamble walked, Walker hit a grounder to the first sacker, who threw the ball into a centerfield trying for a double play, and the Barberton third sacker booted McVay's grounder. Gamble scored the winning run.

Mike McFarlane pounded out a double and a single in leading East Liverpool's four-hit attack off the offerings of Barberton's Arch Strimel. Radcliffe and Bucky Blythe each stroked singles for East Liverpool.

In defeating the District 4 champions, Walker struck out 10 in his six innings on the mound.

The winner of the Ohio championship will travel to Gary, Ind., Aug. 18-20 for the Northern Regional playoffs.

Dick Knight Has Lead In Connecticut 'Open'

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) —After what has happened so far in the $30,000 Insurance City Open Golf Tournament, it's tough to get anybody to predict the eventual winner of this 72-hole battle.

The leader after 36 holes is Dick Knight, 30-year-old pro from Apple Valley, Calif., who has posted rounds of 66-67 for a nine-under-par 133 for 36 holes. Only one stroke behind Knight are Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Jack Fleck of Los Angles.

Only a few strokes separates Knight from some of the world's greatest golfers including Arnold Palmer, Ken Venturi, Doug Ford and Gene Littler.

Palmer improved his position Friday and now trails by five strokes.

THESE COLLEGE ALL-STARS get some tips from Coach Otto Graham as they prepare for their battle with the Baltimore Colts at Soldier Field, Chicago. Army Pistols Win Trophies

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP)—The U.S. Army proved it has the finest service markesmen in the country by dominating the National Pistol Trophy Matches sponsored by the Department of the Army Friday.

The Army took three of the first places in the individual competition and the first three places in the team competition. All competitors fired service-issued .45-caliber pistols and ammunition.

Army Sgt. 1. C. Andrew N. Jackson of San Francisco won the individual test with a record-shattering score of 294 points out of a possible 300. He was the first service Negro to take the contest in its 57-year history.

In the 50-yard-slow - fire stage, Jackson placed all 10 shots in the bulls-eye for a perfect 100 score. In the time-fire stage, shot at 25 yards, he hit 94 out of 100, and in the final rapid-fire, also at 25 yards, he got another perfect 100.

In the slow-fire, one minute is permitted for each shot. in the time-fire, 20 seconds is given for each shot, and in the rapid-fire, 10 seconds for each five shots.

The old record set in 1957 was 293 points, held by six-time national pistol champion Army M. Sgt. Huelet Benner of West Point, N.Y.

Finishing second to Jackson was Air Force M. Sgt. Jack E. Seider of Phoenix, Ariz., with 292. He was followed by Army Sgt. Harry A. Smith of Painted Post, N.Y., Air Force S.Sgt. Edwin L. Teague of San Diego, Tex., and Army M. Sgt. James W. Kurtz of Columbus, Ga.

The latter three all had score of 291, and the tie-breaking "X" ring, a smaller circle within the bulls-eye, was used to determine the placings. Smith had 10 of his 30 shots in this ring, Teague nine and Kurtz six.

In team competition, the Army's winning team scored 1,132 out of a possible 1,200. The second team had 1,128 and the third squad 1,-126. Members of the winning team were 1st Lt. Cecil L. Wallis of San Antonio, Tex., Sgt. Jackson, Pfc. John W. Swanstrom of Duluth, Minn., and Sgt. 1. C. Harold R. Wilson of Asheville, N.C.

U.S. And Mexico Meet In Cup Play

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States and Mexico meet today in American Zone Davis Cup elimination tennis matches which experts on both sides concede could be decided by a tricky gust of wind.

In a second match, teen-age Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, a surprise singles selection, meets Mexico's veteran Marion Llamas.

Mexico has never beaten the United States in Davis Cup play. But even the U.S. team captain, Davis Freed, admits that Mexico has a chance.

No Agreement On Next Bout, D'Amato Says

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Cus D'Amato, manager of world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said today that as far as he is concerned there is no agreement on a site and date for the third Patterson-Ingemar Johansson title fight.

Promoter Bill Fugazy has said the fight will be on Nov. 1 in Los Angeles.

"It is the rule for the promoter to talk to both fighters — and the champion first — on these matters, but as I understand it Fugazy has talked only to Johansson," said D'Amato.

He added that he had talked to Patterson just before leaving home and that Floyd had made no statements on his preference for any particular site and date.

D'Amato is here for talks with either Johansson or his adviser, Edwin Ahlquist. Johansson and Ahlquist made no bones about their annoyance at the way D'Amato handled the first fight in which the handsome Swede won the title. As a result, D'Amato was stripped of his manager's license by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Sime Nearing Olympic Spot

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Dave Sime and Dave Davis have a couple of things in common—a first name and the distinction of being elected to the U. S. Olympic team.

But the things they share today don't include the same feelings.

Sime, the former Duke sprinter, missed the 1956 Olympics because of a leg injury and wasn't given much of a chance of making the 1960 team.

Today he has just about locked up the third position on the 100-meter team that will compete for the United States in Rome.

Davis, one of the "big four" shot putters, is headed in the opposite direction. Troubled by a sore hand, he made it look even more probable that he won't get to throw in Rome.

Sime, competing with Paul Winder of Morgan State for the third spot on the 100-meter team, stunned a crowd of about 10,000 in the pre-Olympic meet here by winning in 10.5 seconds—against a seven-mile-an-hour wind.

Left behind were such formidable sprinters as Ray Norton, Frank Budd, Stone Johnson and Winder.

Bill Nieder, the ex-Kansas star, won the shot put with a heave of 63 feet, 11 inches. It was well hit pending world record of 65-7 but good enough to move him closer to a starting position on the U.S. team.

No world records were threatened here. John Thomas, who broke the high jump record by clearing 7-3¾ last month, got only as high as 7-¾ here. But he still won the event easily.

37 Swimmers Set For Olympic Test

DETROIT (AP) — The finest swimming and diving stars in the land, 37 strong, will carry the United States' hopes into the 1960 Olympic Games with renewed hope of bringing the international honors back to home soil.

The last 24 members of the U.S. team were selected Friday after four days and nights of gruelling competition in which the new Olympians shattered three world and four American records.

The Olympic-bound athletes range from diving star Juno Stover Irwin, the 31-year-old mother of four, to 13-year-old Donna de-Varona.

The baby-faced De Varona youngster of Lafayette, Calif., is the world record holder in the 400-meters individual medley relay.

Three more teenagers had a hand in the record-smashing. Mike Troy, 19-year-old Indiana University sophomore, bettered his own world mark in the 200-meters butterfly.

Look-alikes Chris von Saltza and Lynn Burke, set world standards—Miss Burke in the 100-meters backstroke and Miss Von Saltza in the 400-meters freestyle.

Baroness Chris was one of five double-qualifiers in the U.S. trials that closed a dramatic run at Brennan Pools Friday night.

She also won the 100-meter freestyle. Paula Jean Pope, a 25-year-old California housewife, completed a double slam in the diving by taking first place in both the platform and springboard events.

Another Indiana star, Alan Somers, streaked to a double victory in the distance freestyle events. Gary Tobian, University of Southern California senior, earned a double berth by placing second to Sam Hall in the springboard and second to Bob Webster in the platform.

A 14-year-old from Portland, Ore., Carolyn Wood, was the other double qualifier, winning the 100-meters butterfly and finishing second in the 100-meters freestyle.

The Olympic swimming competition begins in Rome in late August. The women's team departed today for a week of workouts at Roslyn, N.Y. The men will train at Michigan State University and the entire squad will leave New York a week from today.

Farrell Makes Squad In Last Men's Event

DETROIT (AP) — Jeff Farrell finally made the Olympic team the way he wanted to — in the pool.

"I'm very grateful," he said after he earned his berth by finishing fourth in the 200-meter freestyle.

"This is the way I wanted to make the team."

"As a matter of principle, the 23-year-old "invalid" twice in the last four days rejected offers to make him an alternate on the relay team. The U.S. Olympic Men's Swim Committee's suggestion was that he later swim off with the sixth man of the relay team for the right to go to Rome.

This would have given him a chance to recover fully from the emergency appendectomy of nine days ago that almost blasted his dream of making the team.

Farrell, holder of the American record of :54.8 for 100 meters, failed by just one-tenth of a second to gain one of the two positions in that event.

His last hope was the 800-meter relay squad. And he made it in the last men's event of the four-day trials with his fourth place finish in the 200-meter free style final. All he had to do was finish sixth.

George Harrison of Stanford finished first in 2:03.1. Farrell's time was 2:04.6.

Mizell Comes Through Again As Bucs Blank Giants, 1-0

Pirates Boost Lead To Four With Victory

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

They gave up on Vinegar Bend Mizell. The experts said he'd never be a winning pitcher.

The St. Louis Cardinals stuck with him eight seasons, hoping each spring he'd come up with that big year. Finally, their patience ran out and last May they peddled him to Pittsburgh.

Friday night Mizell shut out San Francisco 1-0. It was his seventh victory in nine decisions since he joined the league leading Pirates. It also was his second consecutive shutout. He now has a string of 26 successive scoreless innings.

Thanks to Mizell, the Pirates have a four-game bulge over second place Milwaukee, which displaced the Cardinals in the runner-up spot by walloping Chicago's Cubs 10-2. St. Louis, blanked by Cincinnati 3-0, dropped into third place, a half game behind the Braves. Rain washed out the Dodger-Phillies game in Philadelphia.

New York's Yankees increased their American League lead to 2½ games over Chicago, defeating Kansas City 4-3 while Washington was handing the White Sox a 6-1 shellacking. Cleveland edged out Baltimore 4-3 to make Jimmy Dykes' managerial debut a success. Boston spoiled Joe Gordon's debut with Detroit by defeating the Tigers 4-2.

An unearned Pittsburgh run in the eighth broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Mizell and Sam Jones. The Giants' ace pitcher had no one to blame but himself. He walked Bill Virdon, leading off the eighth. Then he threw Dick Groat's sacrifice bunt over Don Blasingame's head at first base. Groat and Blasingame collided and the speedy Virdon raced all the way home before the ball could be retrieved.

Bob Purkey snapped St. Louis' seven-game winning streak, blanking the Cards with four hits for eight innings. Marshall Bridges, in relief, finished the shutout to cement Purkey's 11th victory in 18 decisions. The Reds broke a scoreless tie with an unearned run off Curt Simmons in the sixth.

Every Milwaukee starter except Eddie Mathews hit safely as the Braves walloped four Chicago pitchers for 15 hits including Hank Aaron's 30th home run, tying him with the Cubs' Ernie Banks for the league lead. Lew Burdette, who coasted to his 12th victory, also homered. Del Crandall and rookie Al Spangler had three hits apiece for the Braves who snapped a four-game losing streak.

Indians Nip Orioles 4-3 After Dykes Takes Over

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane has drawn first blood in his recent unprecedented managerial exchange with President Bill DeWitt of the Detroit Tigers.

Making his managerial debut with the Indians following the swap that brought him from Detroit for Joe Gordon, Jimmy Dykes masterminded his new charges to a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night.

At the same time, Gordon, in his first game at the helm of the Tigers, saw his team go down to a 4-2 defeat by the Boston Red Sox.

The Indians employed a seldom-used weapon — the bunt squeeze — to bring home the winning run. It happened in the seventh inning with the score tied at 3-3. Red Wilson, who had opened with a double, was on third following pitcher Jim Perry's sacrifice. Johnny Temple laid down a neat bunt and Wilson, running with the pitch, scored the deciding run as pitcher Chuck Estrada had only a play at first base.

Despite the victory, the fourth place Indians still trailed front-running New York by six games as the Yankees increased their lead to 2½ games over second place Chicago by defeating Kansas City 4-3. The White Sox were soundly thrashed by Washington 6-1.

Pittsburgh opened up a four-game bulge in the National League, shutting out San Francisco 1-0. Milwaukee regained second place from St. Louis, walloping the Chicago Cubs 10-2 while Cincinnati was blanking the Cardinals 3-0. Rain washed out the game in Philadelphia between Los Angeles and the Phillies.

Cleveland's close victory over Baltimore made Perry, the Indians' ace right-hander, the biggest winner in the American League with 13 triumphs. Estrada, the loser, now has an 11-7 record.

A two-run homer by Roger Maris, his 33rd of the season, won for the Yankees but they had to snuff out a ninth inning rally to finish off the Athletics. Trailing 4-1, the A's routed relief pitchers Luis Arroyo and Bob Turley with two runs and had the tying and winning runs on base with two out. Bobby Shantz took over and got Norm Siebern to fly deep to Maris on the first pitch.

A four-run Red Sox outburst in the seventh inning spoiled Gordon's managerial debut with the Tigers. Shortstop Don Buddin tripled home two runs in the rally that wiped out a 2-0 Detroit lead and hung the 10th defeat of the season upon Frank Lary. Ike DeLock won his sixth game in relief.

The Senators battered Buck Shaw off the mound with a four-run explosion in the first inning and went on to inflict the fifth straight defeat upon the American League defending champions. After retiring the first two batters, Shaw (10-9) walked two batters, then clipped for singles by Faye Throneberry, Bill Gardner and Jim Lemon. Pete Ramos won his seventh with a four-hitter.

'Don't Count Us Out,' Dykes Says Of Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jimmie Dykes told the Cleveland Indians he feels they are capable of winning the American League pennant. Maybe the players believed him.

They immediately went out and beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 Friday night to make a success of Dykes' debut as Cleveland manager.

The question of a pennant came up in Dykes' pre-game talk to the players. "We're six games behind," he said, "but stranger things have happened. No team is taking charge in the race. There's a long way to go and we've got a chance."

After the hard-fought contest, General Manager Frank Lane stopped into Dykes' office to offer congratulations. "Whew! exclaimed Lane. "It was nice to win that one, brother. It was played big league all the way."

The Indians broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning when Johnny Temple laid down a bunt as Red Wilson came racing for the plate on a suicide squeeze play.

The 63-year-old Dykes—a new manager for the sixth time—said the team went all out for him. "It was hard to keep that bench down. The whole team was really high. All keyed up."

The discussion turned to Jimmy Piersall, the high-strung centerfielder, who responded to the change of managers with two hits in three trips, a daring bit of base running and a running catch that saved at least two runs.

Each time Piersall returned to the bench after a successful effort Dykes gave him a pat on the back. Piersall played it straight all the way, dropping his usual clowning routine which got him in trouble with umpires and former Manager Joe Gordon.

"I don't think you'll see too much of that (clowning)," said Dykes. "I'll bet on it."

Piersall was delighted with Dykes' attitude toward him. "He told the whole club 'I'll never show up any one of you in front of the others,'" Piersall reported. "That was music to my ears. He treats me like a man. That's all I ask."

Not everything was peaches and cream for Dykes, however. He learned that second baseman Ken Aspromonte has a jammed thumb, suffered while hitting a foul ball in the fifth inning. He is a doubtful starter for today's game.

And pitcher Jim Perry (13-5), who became the league's top winner, was forced out after eight innings with a painful blister and may miss a pitching turn.

The chemical compound DDT was discovered in 1874 but it wasn't used as an insecticide until 1939.

Billy Martin Fined $500, Suspended For Five Days

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Battling Billy Martin, backed by Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson, is bitter over a $500 fine and five-day suspension and wants Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to hear his side of the case.

Hutchinson implied that National League President Warren C. Giles was influenced by Martin's past record in fining the Redleg second baseman Friday night. Chicago Cub pitcher Jim Brewer, slugged by Martin, suffered a fractured of the orbit bone below his right eye. He will undergo surgery today.

Hutch put it this way:

"Do you think Brewer would have been fined $500 and suspended five days if the fight had gone the other way?"

Martin said he felt he had been "dealt with very unfairly by Mr. Giles. I will ask the commissioner for a hearing. The fight wasn't my fault and I was only protecting myself after he threw at my head."

The fine was one of the largest ever imposed by Giles. Brewer will be out at least a month, and possibly the rest of the season.

The fight came after a pitch by Brewer Thursday caromed off Martin's bat and hit his helmet. On the next pitch, Martin's bat went flying toward the mound and first base.

Billy said when he came out to get the bat, Brewer said, "You want to fight—I'll really give you something."

Martin declared that "to me, that meant I was gonna get punched—so I swung." Then he wondered out loud:

"I wonder what would have happened if I had missed?"

Brewer said he merely asked Martin if he wanted to fight and he wasn't expecting the punch.

Cub Manager Lou Boudreau said if he were president, he would fine Martin $1,000 and keep him under suspension until Brewer was able to play.

Local Team Wins In Salem Tourney

Gene Talbott flipped a four-hitter as Ray Wilson Sunoco won its first start in the Salem Softball Tournament Friday night, 12-0, over Deming Pumps of Salem.

Bob Boston smashed three hits for the East Liverpool squad to lead the 14-hit attack. Deming Pump committed six errors.

Arsuffi, with a pair of singles, sparked Deming Pump. Getting two hits each for East Liveropol were McMillan, Williams and Hull. McMillan scored three runs.

The Sunoco squad will oppose Herron Transfer tonight at 9:30 in its next start in the tourney.

North's Stars Win 7 To 0 In West Virginia

PARKERSBURG (AP) — The North All-Stars made it three straight victories over their scholastic counterparts from South of the Little Kanawha River here Friday night to kick off summertime football activity in West Virginia.

Quarterback Gary Satterfield of Pennsboro threw one pass for the Yankees in the 12th Little Kanawha Bowl battle — a 19-yard bullseye to halfback Al Rinehart of St. Marys for a touchdown.

Fullback Scott Brewer of Williamstown rammed over for the extra point with about one minute left in the first quarter for a 7-0 North victory, its fifth in 12 L-K Bowl games.

Brewer was selected most valuable player for the North. He picked up 135 of the Yankees' 162 yards from scrimmage in 23 carries. Spencer halfback Dick Frum was named the South's most outstanding performer.

The biggest balmy night for high school all-star football will come next Saturday. The annual West Virginia-Ohio clash will be played in Wheeling, while the first East-West Kanawha Senior Bowl game will be played in Charleston.

Two more scholastic games will remain after that. Southern West Virginia all-stars will meet a similar team from Southwestern Virginia in Bluefield Aug. 19 and Williamson will be host Aug. 20 to teams from Southwestern West Virginia and neighboring Kentucky.

Scatterfield passed to Rinehart to climax a 42-yard North drive in the L-K Bowl struggle.

One of three fumbles lost by the South was recovered by Bob Bowen of Sistersville on the Rebs' 42. Seven plays carried the North to the 19, where it became third down and nine for an important first down.

Satterfield was sent into the game by Yankee coaches Jim Heal of Middlebourne and Bill Hanlin of St. Marys. His sideline pass provided the only TD.

The Rebels marched to the North 19 in the third quarter, but a lost fumble ended the drive. A South fumble on its own 23 started a North drive to the five, but the game ended there.

The victors had 39 yards passing for a total offensive of 201 yards. The South had 97 yards rushing and 14 on one pass completion.

Toronto Wins As Hawkins Hurls Shutout

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Maple Leafs, marching doubletime toward the International League pennant after a distant last-place finish in 1959, have accomplished the amazing flip-flop with a staunch defense air-tight pitching.

The league-leading Leafs' newest hurling sensation, right-hander Wynn Hawkins, blanked Richmond 8-0 Friday night on five singles for his second shutout and the 24th turned in by the Toronto mound corps.

The victory for the Leafs—last in the circuit in hitting at the .230 mark but tops in fielding with a .980 percentage—gave them a 12-game lead over the runner-up Virginians.

In other games, third-place Buffalo edge Miami 8-7 in the opener of a double header 8-7 but lost the nightcap 8-3; Jersey City trimmed fourth-place Rochester twice, 11-5 and 4-3, and Montreal nipped Columbus 2-1.

Topping Asks LA Spot For American League

NEW YORK (AP) — The proposed major league baseball expansion plan already has run into a snag and Los Angeles Dodgers owner Walter O'Malley today loomed as the key man if the snarl is to be untangled.

Dan Topping, co-owner of the New York Yankees, said Friday he would fight the expansion move unless an American League club is placed in Los Angeles.

"New York is the crux of the National League expansion plan," thundered Topping, "and Los Angeles emphatically must figure in the coast-to-coast realignment on our side."

This puts things pretty much up to O'Malley. He said he was surprised at Topping's statement and would have no comment.

But his feelings on the matter are no secret. O'Malley does not want an American League team in Los Angeles until his new park is built in Chavez Ravine. That would be in 1962. He thinks he has spent a lot of money to build up a following in Los Angeles and sees no reason why another club should ride his coattails.

When the new park is built, O'Malley will be perfectly happy to have an American League team in Los Angeles, not only to build up a rivalry, but to pay its way as a tenant in the new park.

While no mention of Los Angeles was made following the expansion announcement earlier in the week, it is known that the American League has been eager to get a team there.

Redlegs Blank Cardinals 3-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — There always is one way the oft-maligned Cincinnati Reds' pitchers can overcome that puny batting support they have been receiving for weeks. Just don't allow the other team any runs.

That was the method of Bob Purkey, with an assist from Marshall Bridges, used Friday night as the Reds snapped a seven-game St. Louis winning streak by beating the Cards, 3-0.

Certainly Purkey never had anything like a safe working margin as the Reds got only seven hits off Curt Simmons and Bob Grim and it even took a couple of Cardinal errors to help Cincinnati get its first run in the sixth inning.

Purkey, winning his 11th game as against seven defeats, allowed the Cards only four hits in the eight innings he worked. He struck out three and walked one. Bridges, picked up from the Cards only this week in a waiver deal, gave up one hit in the ninth.

It was the fourth shutout pitched by Redleg hurlers this season. And it was the seventh time in the last eight games the Reds have scored three or fewer runs in a contest.

Purkey and Simmons were locked in a brilliant scoreless battle when the Cards' defense folded in the sixth. With two out Gus Bell doubled. Wally Post was walked intentionally and Daryl Spencer's error on Cliff Cook's grounder loaded the bases. Bell then scored when Ken Boyer booted Gordon Coleman's grounder.

The other two Cincinnati runs were legitimate.

Eddie Kasko singled in the seventh with two out, stole second and scored on Vada Pinson's double. With Grim, a Redleg until recently, pitching in the ninth, Cincinnati scored again on a single by Ed Bailey, a double by pinch hitter Jerry Lynch and Kasko's sacrifice fly.

Only two Cardinals got as far as third base off Purkey and Bridges.

Thriller Won By Woodbine

In an extra-inning battle, Woodbine's triumphed over Burbick's, 6-5, in Pony League action Friday.

The winners broke a 4-4 deadlock by scoring two runs in the eighth. Burbicks came back with one, but it wasn't enough.

Horger of Woodbine's was the hitting standout with a triple that drove in a run. The winners were limited to three hits by Cline and Burns, with Cline getting the loss.

Chetwynd hurled for Woodbines and gave up five hits. He needed relief help from Ruth to preserve the victory.

Indians Nip Orioles 4-3 After Dykes Takes Over

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane has drawn first blood in his recent unprecedented managerial exchange with President Bill DeWitt of the Detroit Tigers.

Making his managerial debut with the Indians following the swap that brought him from Detroit for Joe Gordon, Jimmy Dykes masterminded his new charges to a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night.

At the same time, Gordon, in his first game at the helm of the Tigers, saw his team go down to a 4-2 defeat by the Boston Red Sox.

The Indians employed a seldom-used weapon — the bunt squeeze — to bring home the winning run. It happened in the seventh inning with the score tied at 3-3. Red Wilson, who had opened with a double, was on third following pitcher Jim Perry's sacrifice. Johnny Temple laid down a neat bunt and Wilson, running with the pitch, scored the deciding run as pitcher Chuck Estrada had only a play at first base.

Despite the victory, the fourth place Indians still trailed front-running New York by six games as the Yankees increased their lead to 2½ games over second place Chicago by defeating Kansas City 4-3. The White Sox were soundly thrashed by Washington 6-1.

Pittsburgh opened up a four-game bulge in the National League, shutting out San Francisco 1-0. Milwaukee regained second place from St. Louis, walloping the Chicago Cubs 10-2 while Cincinnati was blanking the Cardinals 3-0. Rain washed out the game in Philadelphia between Los Angeles and the Phillies.

Cleveland's close victory over Baltimore made Perry, the Indians' ace right-hander, the biggest winner in the American League with 13 triumphs. Estrada, the loser, now has an 11-7 record.

A two-run homer by Roger Maris, his 33rd of the season, won for the Yankees but they had to snuff out a ninth inning rally to finish off the Athletics. Trailing 4-1, the A's routed relief pitchers Luis Arroyo and Bob Turley with two runs and had the tying and winning runs on base with two out. Bobby Shantz took over and got Norm Siebern to fly deep to Maris on the first pitch.

A four-run Red Sox outburst in the seventh inning spoiled Gordon's managerial debut with the Tigers. Shortstop Don Buddin tripled home two runs in the rally that wiped out a 2-0 Detroit lead and hung the 10th defeat of the season upon Frank Lary. Ike DeLock won his sixth game in relief.

The Senators battered Buck Shaw off the mound with a four-run explosion in the first inning and went on to inflict the fifth straight defeat upon the American League defending champions. After retiring the first two batters, Shaw (10-9) walked two batters, then clipped for singles by Faye Throneberry, Bill Gardner and Jim Lemon. Pete Ramos won his seventh with a four-hitter.

'Don't Count Us Out,' Dykes Says Of Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jimmie Dykes told the Cleveland Indians he feels they are capable of winning the American League pennant. Maybe the players believed him.

They immediately went out and beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 Friday night to make a success of Dykes' debut as Cleveland manager.

The question of a pennant came up in Dykes' pre-game talk to the players. "We're six games behind," he said, "but stranger things have happened. No team is taking charge in the race. There's a long way to go and we've got a chance."

After the hard-fought contest, General Manager Frank Lane stopped into Dykes' office to offer congratulations. "Whew! exclaimed Lane. "It was nice to win that one, brother. It was played big league all the way."

The Indians broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning when Johnny Temple laid down a bunt as Red Wilson came racing for the plate on a suicide squeeze play.

The 63-year-old Dykes—a new manager for the sixth time—said the team went all out for him. "It was hard to keep that bench down. The whole team was really high. All keyed up."

The discussion turned to Jimmy Piersall, the high-strung centerfielder, who responded to the change of managers with two hits in three trips, a daring bit of base running and a running catch that saved at least two runs.

Each time Piersall returned to the bench after a successful effort Dykes gave him a pat on the back. Piersall played it straight all the way, dropping his usual clowning routine which got him in trouble with umpires and former Manager Joe Gordon.

"I don't think you'll see too much of that (clowning)," said Dykes. "I'll bet on it."

Piersall was delighted with Dykes' attitude toward him. "He told the whole club 'I'll never show up any one of you in front of the others,'" Piersall reported. "That was music to my ears. He treats me like a man. That's all I ask."

Not everything was peaches and cream for Dykes, however. He learned that second baseman Ken Aspromonte has a jammed thumb, suffered while hitting a foul ball in the fifth inning. He is a doubtful starter for today's game.

And pitcher Jim Perry (13-5), who became the league's top winner, was forced out after eight innings with a painful blister and may miss a pitching turn.

The chemical compound DDT was discovered in 1874 but it wasn't used as an insecticide until 1939.

Billy Martin Fined $500, Suspended For Five Days

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Battling Billy Martin, backed by Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson, is bitter over a $500 fine and five-day suspension and wants Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to hear his side of the case.

Hutchinson implied that National League President Warren C. Giles was influenced by Martin's past record in fining the Redleg second baseman Friday night. Chicago Cub pitcher Jim Brewer, slugged by Martin, suffered a fractured of the orbit bone below his right eye. He will undergo surgery today.

Hutch put it this way:

"Do you think Brewer would have been fined $500 and suspended five days if the fight had gone the other way?"

Martin said he felt he had been "dealt with very unfairly by Mr. Giles. I will ask the commissioner for a hearing. The fight wasn't my fault and I was only protecting myself after he threw at my head."

The fine was one of the largest ever imposed by Giles. Brewer will be out at least a month, and possibly the rest of the season.

The fight came after a pitch by Brewer Thursday caromed off Martin's bat and hit his helmet. On the next pitch, Martin's bat went flying toward the mound and first base.

Billy said when he came out to get the bat, Brewer said, "You want to fight—I'll really give you something."

Martin declared that "to me, that meant I was gonna get punched—so I swung." Then he wondered out loud:

"I wonder what would have happened if I had missed?"

Brewer said he merely asked Martin if he wanted to fight and he wasn't expecting the punch.

Cub Manager Lou Boudreau said if he were president, he would fine Martin $1,000 and keep him under suspension until Brewer was able to play.

Local Team Wins In Salem Tourney

Gene Talbott flipped a four-hitter as Ray Wilson Sunoco won its first start in the Salem Softball Tournament Friday night, 12-0, over Deming Pumps of Salem.

Bob Boston smashed three hits for the East Liverpool squad to lead the 14-hit attack. Deming Pump committed six errors.

Arsuffi, with a pair of singles, sparked Deming Pump. Getting two hits each for East Liveropol were McMillan, Williams and Hull. McMillan scored three runs.

The Sunoco squad will oppose Herron Transfer tonight at 9:30 in its next start in the tourney.

North's Stars Win 7 To 0 In West Virginia

PARKERSBURG (AP) — The North All-Stars made it three straight victories over their scholastic counterparts from South of the Little Kanawha River here Friday night to kick off summertime football activity in West Virginia.

Quarterback Gary Satterfield of Pennsboro threw one pass for the Yankees in the 12th Little Kanawha Bowl battle — a 19-yard bullseye to halfback Al Rinehart of St. Marys for a touchdown.

Fullback Scott Brewer of Williamstown rammed over for the extra point with about one minute left in the first quarter for a 7-0 North victory, its fifth in 12 L-K Bowl games.

Brewer was selected most valuable player for the North. He picked up 135 of the Yankees' 162 yards from scrimmage in 23 carries. Spencer halfback Dick Frum was named the South's most outstanding performer.

The biggest balmy night for high school all-star football will come next Saturday. The annual West Virginia-Ohio clash will be played in Wheeling, while the first East-West Kanawha Senior Bowl game will be played in Charleston.

Two more scholastic games will remain after that. Southern West Virginia all-stars will meet a similar team from Southwestern Virginia in Bluefield Aug. 19 and Williamson will be host Aug. 20 to teams from Southwestern West Virginia and neighboring Kentucky.

Scatterfield passed to Rinehart to climax a 42-yard North drive in the L-K Bowl struggle.

One of three fumbles lost by the South was recovered by Bob Bowen of Sistersville on the Rebs' 42. Seven plays carried the North to the 19, where it became third down and nine for an important first down.

Satterfield was sent into the game by Yankee coaches Jim Heal of Middlebourne and Bill Hanlin of St. Marys. His sideline pass provided the only TD.

The Rebels marched to the North 19 in the third quarter, but a lost fumble ended the drive. A South fumble on its own 23 started a North drive to the five, but the game ended there.

The victors had 39 yards passing for a total offensive of 201 yards. The South had 97 yards rushing and 14 on one pass completion.

Toronto Wins As Hawkins Hurls Shutout

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Maple Leafs, marching doubletime toward the International League pennant after a distant last-place finish in 1959, have accomplished the amazing flip-flop with a staunch defense air-tight pitching.

The league-leading Leafs' newest hurling sensation, right-hander Wynn Hawkins, blanked Richmond 8-0 Friday night on five singles for his second shutout and the 24th turned in by the Toronto mound corps.

The victory for the Leafs—last in the circuit in hitting at the .230 mark but tops in fielding with a .980 percentage—gave them a 12-game lead over the runner-up Virginians.

In other games, third-place Buffalo edge Miami 8-7 in the opener of a double header 8-7 but lost the nightcap 8-3; Jersey City trimmed fourth-place Rochester twice, 11-5 and 4-3, and Montreal nipped Columbus 2-1.

Local Fisherman Lands 14-Pound Catfish

A 20-year-old East Liverpool fisherman made the prize catch of his career when he pulled out a 14-pound catfish from Beaver Creek early Friday morning.

Roy Bratt of 800 Valley Ave., landed the fish on Beaver Creek near the Pennsylvania - Ohio state line. The fish measured almost three feet.

Topping Asks LA Spot For American League

NEW YORK (AP) — The proposed major league baseball expansion plan already has run into a snag and Los Angeles Dodgers owner Walter O'Malley today loomed as the key man if the snarl is to be untangled.

Dan Topping, co-owner of the New York Yankees, said Friday he would fight the expansion move unless an American League club is placed in Los Angeles.

"New York is the crux of the National League expansion plan," thundered Topping, "and Los Angeles emphatically must figure in the coast-to-coast realignment on our side."

This puts things pretty much up to O'Malley. He said he was surprised at Topping's statement and would have no comment.

But his feelings on the matter are no secret. O'Malley does not want an American League team in Los Angeles until his new park is built in Chavez Ravine. That would be in 1962. He thinks he has spent a lot of money to build up a following in Los Angeles and sees no reason why another club should ride his coattails.

When the new park is built, O'Malley will be perfectly happy to have an American League team in Los Angeles, not only to build up a rivalry, but to pay its way as a tenant in the new park.

While no mention of Los Angeles was made following the expansion announcement earlier in the week, it is known that the American League has been eager to get a team there.

Redlegs Blank Cardinals 3-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — There always is one way the oft-maligned Cincinnati Reds' pitchers can overcome that puny batting support they have been receiving for weeks. Just don't allow the other team any runs.

That was the method of Bob Purkey, with an assist from Marshall Bridges, used Friday night as the Reds snapped a seven-game St. Louis winning streak by beating the Cards, 3-0.

Certainly Purkey never had anything like a safe working margin as the Reds got only seven hits off Curt Simmons and Bob Grim and it even took a couple of Cardinal errors to help Cincinnati get its first run in the sixth inning.

Purkey, winning his 11th game as against seven defeats, allowed the Cards only four hits in the eight innings he worked. He struck out three and walked one. Bridges, picked up from the Cards only this week in a waiver deal, gave up one hit in the ninth.

It was the fourth shutout pitched by Redleg hurlers this season. And it was the seventh time in the last eight games the Reds have scored three or fewer runs in a contest.

Purkey and Simmons were locked in a brilliant scoreless battle when the Cards' defense folded in the sixth. With two out Gus Bell doubled. Wally Post was walked intentionally and Daryl Spencer's error on Cliff Cook's grounder loaded the bases. Bell then scored when Ken Boyer booted Gordon Coleman's grounder.

The other two Cincinnati runs were legitimate.

Eddie Kasko singled in the seventh with two out, stole second and scored on Vada Pinson's double. With Grim, a Redleg until recently, pitching in the ninth, Cincinnati scored again on a single by Ed Bailey, a double by pinch hitter Jerry Lynch and Kasko's sacrifice fly.

Only two Cardinals got as far as third base off Purkey and Bridges.

Thriller Won By Woodbine

In an extra-inning battle, Woodbine's triumphed over Burbick's, 6-5, in Pony League action Friday.

The winners broke a 4-4 deadlock by scoring two runs in the eighth. Burbicks came back with one, but it wasn't enough.

Horger of Woodbine's was the hitting standout with a triple that drove in a run. The winners were limited to three hits by Cline and Burns, with Cline getting the loss.

Chetwynd hurled for Woodbines and gave up five hits. He needed relief help from Ruth to preserve the victory.

Lions Report 'Debbie' Fund Hits $1,300

Approximately $1,300 has been received in the Lions Club's "Dollars for Debbie" account to date, including an anonymous donation of $50 and two others of $10 each.

Roy Wilson, trust officer of the First National Bank, who is handling the account, reported the total at the club's meeting Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

The club launched the drive to aid in the medical expenses for Deborah McElroy, 9 - year - old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McElroy, 424 College St., whose eyesight is endangered by a disease of the central nervous system.

Jack Craddock, assistant manager of WOHI, addressed the club, commenting on some of the sports personalities he has known.

Craddock pointed out athletes also are human and it is better to encourage them than to knock.

He praised the club for its community spirit, declaring good activity is a sign of a good community.

Craddock introduced the late Rosey Rowswell into broadcasting of Pittsburgh Pirate games and the two described the action for 12 years. He has been in the broadcasting business since 1933.

He was introduced by Paul Pugh, manager of WOHI. James Johnston was program chairman. Howard E. Tice, president, presided.

Landmark Being Razed At Lisbon For Parking Use

LISBON — A Lisbon landmark, formerly used as a horse barn, livery stable and storage garage at the rear of Hamilton's Drugstore on W. Lincoln Way is being razed for a parking area for drugstore customers, Adam Rudibaugh, owner, announced.

The area, approximately 70-by-80 feet, will provide space for an estimated 25 cars.

The barn part of the building, according to records, was constructed in 1803. M. N. Hamilton used it for his team and delivery wagon. It has an overhead mow and was used in the days when Hamilton hauled linseed oil, lead and turpentine from Pittsburgh by wagon over dirt roads.

The first drugstore soda fountain in Lisbon was hauled in by Hamilton from Philadelphia and the wagon trip took more than six weeks.

The building, still in good condition, was put together by wooden pegs.

A stone window still facing the alley in the rear of the courthouse has the initials E. E. carved on it with the date 1817. Old - timers believe they are the initials of Erastus Eells, Lisbon's first mortician and a close friend of Hamilton.

Hammondsville Area Groups To Combine Reunion In 1961

HAMMONDSVILLE — A combined reunion and homecoming is being planned for July 29, 1961 by former pupils of the Pine Grove school and the Pine Grove Methodist Church.

Plans were discussed for the event at the third annual reunion of pupils of the former school held Sunday in the structure near Hammondsville. Over 100 attended.

The school was built in 1888 and was closed for educational purposes in 1932.

Two afternoon programs highlighted the reunion with S. E. Daw, superintendent of Wellsville schools, as principal speaker.

Following dinner, former pupils and friends met in the church for the first program conducted by Mrs. Alice Householder, president. Supt. Daw led singing with his wife accompanist. William Beacom, 93, of Roseville, accompanied the singing with a violin.

The Rev. Theodore Nusser, pastor, read the Scripture lesson and Supt. Daw led the pledge of allegiance. The audience sang "School Days" and "Little Brown Church."

Two poems were read by Alma Lawrence of Alliance and Bobby Twaddle and Lynn Williams sang, accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Williams of Steubenville.

Mrs. Grace Twaddle, secretary, read minutes of last year's reunion. She reported that five friends and schoolmates had since died.

Daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rose of Chestnut Grove, Martha, Nellie and Helen, presented three selections on the accordion, guitar and violin.

Theme for Supt. Daw's afternoon talk was "Education Then and Now."

The audience sang two numbers and Mrs. Eva Lowry Pierce of Steubenville read a poem.

Mrs. Challisa Swickard gave a reading and discussed the school's history.

Gifts were presented Tom Saltsman, of Wellsville, the oldest man present, and Mrs. Pierce, the oldest woman student present. Both are 84. Beacom was recognized for having attended all three reunions.

Mrs. Alice Grafton Householder was named the student with the most generations present, including herself, her father, a daughter, Mrs. Shirley Rhodes, and two grandchildren. Mrs. Hazel Householder had the most children present with four. No former teachers were present.

The reunion closed with group singing and Rev. Nusser offered prayer. A light supper was served.

Ike Winds Up Newport Visit

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower divides his time today between vacation-end relaxation and preparation for the return of Congress.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower will close out their seaside stay Sunday afternoon and fly back to Washington. They arrived in Newport July 7 and have been here since exept fcor six days last week in Chicago and Denver.

Eisenhower is returning to the capital for the reconvening of the Senate Monday.

Present indications are that early next week the President will set forth a program of legislation in which he will prod Congress to act upon in the post-conventions session expected to last until at least Labor Day.

Eisenhower's call for action may be in a nationwide television-radio address, a special message to the Senate, or a combination of both.

Eisenhower spent most of Friday afternoon working at the summer White House with Bryce N. Harlow, his top liaison man with Congress. The President's son and aide, Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, also sat in.

Another round of preparatory work was arranged for today. But in advance of that the President scheduled 18 holes of golf at the Newport Counrty Club course.

It Was Lot Of Bull But Bullets Take Their Toll At Last

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Fred Henry's bull — or the one he sold to the Cambridge butcher, anyway — finally is dead. For a while there, it appeared that no weapon short of an atomic bomb was lethal enough to turn the trick.

The whole thing began Monday when the butcher went out to Henry's place at nearby Terrace Heights to kill the bull. He fired a shot into the animal's head, but the bull didn't drop. It just turned around, crashed through a barbed wire fence and took off-four admiring heifers trailing behind.

It showed up at the farm again the following day, was the target for six or seven more shots and fled the scene once more. After that, it was the object of a bull-hunt hereabouts.

But yesterday, it was sighted in a field of the Larrick Farm about four miles east of Cambridge. After pursuing it for more than an hour, Larry Larrick, the farm owner's son, brought it down with a rifle shot.

The four heifers still are at large.

A peanut scramble ended the entertainment, which followed supper.

Funds Listed In Townships

Township governments in Columbiana County received $628,199.36 and spent $685,529.32 during 1959, according to annual financial reports filed with State Auditor James A. Rhodes by township clerks.

The money which the townships in this county received came from the following sources:

Property taxes, $257,897.35; gasoline tax (state), $144,468.44; auto licenses (state), $68,019.37; local government fund (state), $37,411.47, and other income, $120,402.73.

Road maintenance and improvement accounted for most of the money spent by the township. Here is how the townships spent their money:

Road maintenance, $474,001.75; general government, $85,310.32; cemeteries, $18,183.05; fire protection, $28,725.11, and other expenditures $79,309.09.

"We have observed that township clerks are very prompt in filing their annual financial reports with this office," Rhodes said. "The law requires all local clerks and auditors to file a report and publish it in a newspaper by March 31 of each year. This year all but 84 of the 1,328 township clerks in Ohio had filed their annual reports before the deadline."

Spellman Has Communism Most Dangerous Since '39

By FRANK BRUTTO

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, today described communism this year as "the most dangerous since 1939."

The cardinal spoke on "American Day" of the Roman Catholic church's World Eucharistic Congress to a packed audience in Munich's Cathedral.

His attack against communism was the harshest denunciation of it yet heard at this congress which has brought pilgrims here from all parts of the world, except Communist-ruled lands.

He said that the conflict today "is again between freedom and slavery," and described communism as a "wild beast of the forest" and "drugged with lust for power."

"In these peaceless, imperiled times," said Cardinal Spellman, "daily we learn of new an more imminent Communist promoted crisis throughout the world I in Cuba and Latin America, in East Germany and the international waters of the Barents Sea, in China and the Congo — all ominous testimonials to the fast approaching possibility of the death-day to world freedom, the once fantastic now realistic threat of Soviet Russia.

"Thus, in this, the most dangerous summer since 1939, this international Eucharistic Congress, with its prayerful purpose to sustain the life of the world through dedication to God, is of vast and urgent import to all peoples and all nations."

The vast audience included virtually all of the American colony in Munich and thousands of American pilgrims from the United States.

Cardinal Spellman described the congress, which has been attacked by Communist papers, as "a physical as well as a spiritual symbol of the miraculous, indomitable power of perpetual prayer."

Today was "Day of Light" in the eucharistic congress which comes to an end Sunday with the radio address of Pope John XXIII.

Brotherhood Asks New Bids For Razing Home

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters is readvertising for bids on the sale of a 1½-story frame and stone home on the site near Williamsport where a new international headquarters is being erected.

Bids will be received until noon Saturday, Aug. 13, on the structure, which must be razed or removed within 30 days after a contract is let.

In addition to the new deadline on bids, the minimum offer has been reduced from $3,000 to $1,000, the union said.

The union previously had offered the home for sale with a deadline on bids set for last Saturday.

Ground for the new headquarters diagonally opposite Beaver Local High School was broken several months ago. The house was on the tract when it was purchased by the IBOP.

Palestine Board To Drop DST At Start Of Classes

EAST PALESTINE — Some parents and children are expected to be mighty confused in October when schools return to standard time with the rest of the city continuing to operate on "fast" time.

Supt. T. R. Hersh announced Friday the Board of Education decided at an adjourned meeting Thursday night to end Daylight Saving Time on the last Sunday in September.

While the rest of the city functions on "fast" time until the last Sunday in October, schools will be operating on Eastern Standard Time, Hersh said.

All extracurricular activities in both September and October will go on standard time, he said.

Council last month extended "fast" time for the city until the last Sunday in October.

The school board also certified a resolution to the County Election Board to place a $650,000 bond issue, the largest ever proposed here, on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Proceeds from the bond issue will be used to construct a new elementary building, convert the present gym in the junior high school into a cafeteria, and add six classrooms, a bandroom and a cafeteria at the high school.

Enabling legislation was passed last month clearing the way for the issue to be submitted to the county auditor's office to determine millage rates.

The retirement of Mrs. Paul Grim as cook at the Unity School was announced. Mrs. Clarence Mercer was named to be in charge with Mrs. Sam Simon as assistant.

State narcotics officials produced the information filed by Prosecutor G. William Brokaw before the court at Lisbon.

North Side Child Injured By Auto

Ronald Craven, 12, son of Robert J. Craven, 1217 Riverview St., is in "satisfactory" condition at City Hospital with injuries of the left leg. He was admitted at 1:35 p. m. yesterday.

The mishap apparently ocurred outside the city since police had no report.

The State Highway Patrol said the first information it received was late Friday night when the youngster's father called to see if the patrol had investigated.

The patrol said it now is attempting to unravel the accident to see if any township constables investigated. If no investigation was made, the patrol said it will try to piece together the details.

Crosses Burned In Stabbing Case

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police Chief Stanley Schrotel does not believe two cross burnings here in the wake of the stabbing of a white high school girl by a Negro boy are indications of mounting racial tension.

"It was not a community response. It was a family demonstration," said Schrotel of the cross burnings at and near an integrated housing project.

Robert L. Westerbeck, 26, brother of Virginia Westerbeck, 18, the girl who was stabbed, was one of six persons arrested in connection with Friday's cross burnings.

Meanwhile, Miss Westerbeck, stabbed in the abdomen with a 4½-inch fishing knife Thursday afternoon, was released from the hospital Friday.

She said she was hit and then stabbed when she resisted the advances of the Negro youth after being forced into a Central Vocational High School lavatory at knife point.

Since the stabbing, police have taken 22 boys into custody but all have been released. Most of them were youths who were absent from summer school classes during and after the assault.

Central High School has a heavy Negro enrollment.

2 Ohioans Imprisoned In Cuba For Narcotics

HAVANA (AP) — Formal charges of narcotics peddling were filed Friday against Frank Cammaratta of Youngstown, Ohio, and his associate, Harold Fieldman, 49, of Girard, Ohio.

The two were sent to Principe Prison after Cammaratta failed to make $20,000 bail and Fieldman was unable to post $5,000 bail. Cuban officials said it may be months before their trial starts.

Police picked up Cammaratta and Fieldman, along with three Cubans, last week. Cocaine worth $14,000 was found in a raid on Cammaratta's apartment, police said.

Cammaratta came here in 1953, reportedly to escape deportation from the United States to his native Italy. Fieldman arrived three days before his arrest, but had been here many times before. Fieldman operates a boat and automobile firm in Girard.

Charge Faces Priest Upon Girl's Complaint

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — A charge of assault with intent to rape was filed Friday against a Catholic priest, Father John B. Feit, 27.

The complaint was signed by Maria America Guerra, 20, a student at Pan American College.

Dist. Atty. Robert Lattimore said Miss Guerra charged she was grabbed from behind and a cloth put over her face while she was praying in Sacred Heart Catholic church March 23. The Fronton, Tex., girl said she bit the assailant's finger and he fled.

Father Feit, from Chicago, was enrolled in the pastoral school at the San Juan Catholic church near here. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1959 but was not assigned to the church.

Arson Suspect To Get Mental Observation

Robert A. Leslie, 20, of Tuscarawas, formerly of Grimms Bridge, was taken to the Lima State Hospital Friday by sheriff's deputies for a 60-day observation and report.

Leslie was bound over to September Grand Jury for arson after he allegedly confessed to setting fire to the barn on the Harry Speidel farm, east of Hanoverton, July 29, causing between $12,000 and $14,000 loss.

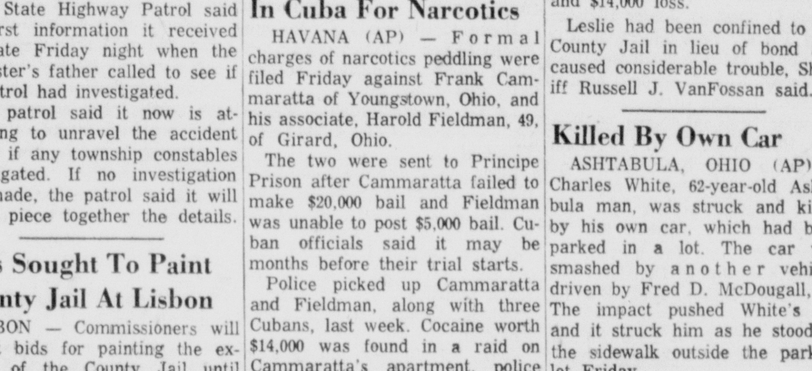

Leslie had been confined to the County Jail in lieu of bond and caused considerable trouble, Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said.

Orange-Glazed Pork Loaf Is Pungent, Tasty

Planning a meal for guests or something new for the family menu? You'll want to try this meat loaf with a "built-in" garnish and a colorful note!

A blend of smoked ham and fresh pork flavors together with the subtle touch of orange and lemon juice makes this loaf something elegant. The brown sugar-mustard-flour combination is placed into the loaf pan, topped with the meat loaf mixture and baked to form the glaze which highlights the meat and the orange slice garnish.

Orange-Glazed Pork Loaf

1 pound ground smoked ham
1 pound ground pork
½ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon flour
5 very thin unpeeled orange slices

Combine orange and lemon juice and pour over bread crumbs. Add ham, pork, onion, parsley and eggs. Mix thoroughly.

Mix together brown sugar, mustard and flour. Sprinkle sugar-flour mixture evenly in bottom of a greased 5x9-inch loaf pan.

Overlap orange slices on the sugar mixture. Pack in meat mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1¼ hours or until done. 8 servings.

Woman Pleads Innocent In Charge After Crash

A Chester area woman entered a plea of not guilty to charges of failure to have her auto under control when she appeared Friday before Squire John D. Herron at New Cumberland.

A hearing was set for Friday at 3:30 for Alice R. Haught, 29, of Chester R. D. 1, who was cited following a two-car mishap Friday on State Route 2 near New Cumberland.

Squire Herron also fined 10 speeders cited by West Virginia State Police on State Route 2.

Nixon Would Take Action In Civil Rights Arguments

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The prestige of the presidency should be brought to bear to help alleviate civil rights controversies, said Vice President Richard M. Nixon Friday night.

The vice president, arriving back on the mainland after a torrid two-days of campaigning in the Hawaiian Islands, said he would take the initiative in civil rights matters if elected president.

"I don't think it is enough simply to say that we will get Congress to pass (civil rights) laws and then let them lie there," he told a news conference.

Nixon said Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers has been meeting with executives of chain stores whose outlets in the South have been the scene of sit-in demonstrations by Negroes.

This, he said, was an attempt to "take the initiative in such matters—to solve the problem before it goes through" years of legal process.

Nixon said that not only would he, as president, take the initiative in civil rights matters, but "I would urge my Cabinet to take the initiative in cases of this type to develop solutions."

His press conference climaxed a hectic 2½-hour stopover in Seattle that originally was scheduled to last only an hour and a half. A crowd estimated at 7,500 took part in welcoming ceremonies at the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport.

Nixon said unfinished business will be the big job of Congress when it reconvenes. The session could "turn into a donnybrook," he said, and called on both parties to take a responsible approach toward the session.

On his campaign swing through the 50th state, Nixon said he felt his visit had welded Hawaiian Republicans more closely together. "We have a good chance to carry Hawaii," he said.

Countywide CD Proposed With Subdivisions Aiding

Over 50 attended a meeting Thursday evening at the Civil Defense headquarters in Lisbon when proposed formation of a countywide unit was discussed.

Mayors of cities and villages, council members, township trustees, safety - service directors and other sub-division officials attended.

Col. Leo McCarthy of Youngstown, 3rd Area Commander, which embraces 14 northeast Ohio counties, told the group the county does not have such an organization and is not included in the 3rd area.

He recommended that the Mayors Association, with E. L. Calvin of Columbiana, chairman, set up a CD Council and appoint a director. County commissioners should be represented as they are the source of most of the revenue for a countywide organization, he said.

Col. McCarthy reminded that any individual committee signing CD agreements with the state and setting up a fund based on 12.5 cents per capita, becomes eligible to purchase surplus products and equipment at the state warehouse, which become the property of the individual units.

If the county unit is organized, it can purchase this surplus equipment from the federal government on a matching fund basis, even without the 12.5-cent per capita, Col. McCarthy said.

Others speaking were Robert J. Lindsay of Warren, Trumbull County CD director; Mrs. Virginia Shetler, also of Warren, secretary and women's organization director; R. R. Leach of Leetonia, commander of the 31st Mobile Support Group; Harmon Zepernick of Salem, representing the 3rd area headquarters, and Arthur Williams, 3rd Area communications director.

Mrs. Shetler, one of three women present, told the group not to overlook women in their setup. "It is the women who made or break a Civil Defense Organization," she added.

Mayor Calvin said that a group will be formed to consider setting up a county organization in the near future.

Present from East Liverpool were Emery Hart, Civil Defense director; Lee Copenhaver, safety-service director, and John Kelly, Third Ward councilman.

Mayor Dean Cranmer represented Salem.

Mayor Dean Stockman and Councilmen Raymond Dixon and Mrs. Blanche Neill represented Lisbon.

Commissioner Walter Hunston of East Palestine was the only commissioner present.

Center Township was represented by J. Eyler Hinchliffe, Ray Thomson and Clifford Shaw, trustees.

Kennedy Pushes Vote Bid After New York City Talks

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, back from a fence-mending presidential campaign trip to New York City, sought today to line up votes from America's nationality groups.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan flew here with Kennedy Friday night to preside at a meeting of the Democratic National Committee's nationalities division at Kennedy's summer home.

Kennedy's staff said about 50 are expected to join the talks with the Democratic presidential nominee.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), one of those Kennedy beat out for the Democratic presidential nomination, is due here this afternoon to discuss what tack the Democrats should take in Congress next week in demanding steps to strengthen the nation's military posture.

Kennedy plans to wind up his three weeks work-rest vacation Sunday night and return to Washington, ready for the Senate's reconvening Monday.

The senator had a big day in New York Friday, and returned looking pleased. He had an unheralded meeting at the Kennedy family's Park Avenue apartment with Tammany chief Carmine G. DeSapio and Democratic State chairman Michael H. Prendergast.

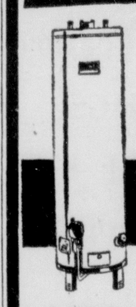

Later, from the lobby of a Manhattan hotel, he talked by telephone with former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, head of an insurgent group battling DeSapio's leadership.

Kennedy has been seeking support from all Democratic factions in pivotal vote-rich New York. It casts the biggest block of electoral votes, 45.

He said he had discussed with Prendergast and DeSapio plans for a high-powered program to register more eligible voters. He said Lehman had told him the picture in New York "is encouraging" for the Democrats.

The Intimate Story: MY BOY'S BATTLE WITH HIMSELF By Floyd Patterson's Mother

6 rules for the worrier

Here – if you must fret! – are some hints from a renowned physician-psychologist on doing it to greater advantage

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.

BE GLAD you worry! It's a sign of intelligence. The smarter you are, the more worries you have. The feeble-minded and lower animals seldom do much worrying, for their I.Q. is too low.

Worry is the badge of a go-getter; the creator of new products; the spur to invention. Thus, Dr. Jenner worried over the death rate from smallpox and discovered vaccination. Edison fretted about poor kerosene lamps, and he came up with the electric light.

So thank God for worry, but simply learn to avoid some of the medical side effects, such as peptic ulcer, spastic colitis, insomnia, and other neurotic ailments. To do so, you should adopt the following rules:

1. Externalize your worries. Focus on outside problems, and don't turn your attention toward your "innards." Each week approximately 20 million Americans consult doctors. Yet half have no diagnosable physical ailments whatsoever! They are medical "worry warts."

If you are now worrying about cancer or heart attacks, arthritis or abdominal ailments, the chances are 50-50 that you simply need more worries—but of an outside sort. You have too much idle and unharnessed brain power.

So become active in a church. Join a civic club. Enlist in the fine work of the Red Cross, YMCA, or CYO. Harness your excess I.Q. to outside problems. Your life will take on more zest then.

2. Budget your worries. Make a list each night of tomorrow's duties. Include both minor and major chores, such as the breakfast dishes, making beds, ironing, shopping.

Then become a "clock watcher," competing with the minute hand. And as soon as you finish an item, cross it out boldly. I even use a thick red pencil to make my daily accomplishments stand out more vividly. My ego expands each time I scratch out one more task.

This written agenda is very effective; it saves time and indecision when you hit a lull. Otherwise you go around in circles, wondering: "What should I do next?"

3. Farm out special worries. Hire an expert to handle these technical problems.

If you have a lump in your breast, don't fritter away valuable months in futile worry. Instead, go to a doctor at once. Let him handle this medical worry for you.

If the lump turns out to be simply a fatty tumor, as it is most likely to be diagnosed, you will have saved months of needless alarm. If, however, it really is cancer, then early treatment is the best way to cure it.

If you men tend to develop ulcers in the spring as the income-tax deadline looms up, why not hire a lawyer or tax accountant? It is far more efficient to pay his modest fee than to work yourself up into a psychological "stew."

4. Shelve your workaday worries on the Sabbath. My mother taught us children not to labor on Sunday. So I made it a habit never to study after midnight Saturday.

Even if I knew I had to face a heavy schedule or fearsome examination on the following Monday, I simply shrugged and took a "so what" attitude on Sunday.

Meanwhile, most of my classmates would moan and groan on a seven-day basis about school problems. If they took even an hour on Sunday for fun or relaxation, they were hounded by a guilt feeling. But I felt relaxed and virtuous over my no-study habit on Sunday!

Indeed, after many years of specializing in psychiatry, I have come to the firm belief that it wasn't an arbitrary whim that caused God to urge us to quit work one day a week. He realized we humans need this break in our constant worrying over workaday problems.

5. Obtain a scapegoat. We married men often employ our wives as the convenient family scapegoat, and they seem to understand.

We explode at home and thus vent our office or factory tensions. And we pass the buck when our children seek our permission by saying, "Go ask your mother."

You bachelors don't have this wonderful safety valve, which is partly the reason you have far more ulcers, insomnia, and spastic colitis. You can't divide your worries or pass the buck to a scapegoat. Actually, a wife adds several years to her husband's longevity, and married women likewise are less neurotic than single women.

6. Get on God's "team." Follow Abraham Lincoln's motto of trying to "plant roses where thistles grew before."

If you are active in spiritual organizations, such as the church, then you don't need to carry your worries past your bedtime curfew. In case you ever are troubled with insomnia, just lift your right hand high above the covers, as if to place it in the clasp of the Almighty, and whisper:

"Lord, I'm trying to be a good member of Your 'team.' But I have a heavy day's work ahead of me tomorrow, so I need eight hours of sound slumber. Will you please take over the night shift for me?"

Then let your uplifted arm drop limply upon the bedcovers. You'll be surprised at how fast you drift off into deep sleep.

God never refuses to take over the night shift of any worried player on His team!

Victor Hugo realized this when he said: "When you have accomplished your daily task, go to sleep in peace; God is awake."

MY BOY'S BATTLE WITH HIMSELF

By MRS. ANNABELLE PATTERSON
as told to John M. Ross

Floyd Patterson KOs Ingemar Johansson to become first heavyweight to regain title.

There were two great crises in Floyd Patterson's life; one he solved recently in the ring—the other his mother now tells about, a comeback story against the toughest opponent a man can face

"Mom" Patterson and her one-time "problem child."

I STILL REMEMBER it so well. There was a heavy knock on the door of our tenement in the crowded Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. When I opened the door, I saw a grim-looking policeman.

"Mrs. Patterson, is this your boy?" he said.

"Yes, that's my Floyd," I said, looking at the gangling 10-year-old he held by the shoulder.

"Better come down to the station with me," the officer said. "He's been stealing."

I've raised 11 children, but I've always worried more about Floyd than all the others put together, even before he made prize fighting his profession and twice won the heavyweight championship of the world.

As a child, he was awfully shy. He didn't speak to anyone much, and it was so hard for him to look right at somebody talking to him. I remember one day when he was just a little boy, a lady, admiring his long hair, ran her fingers through it. Floyd was so embarrassed he cried and ran off.

Realizing that some children are timid in their early years, my husband Thomas and I didn't fret about Floyd in the beginning.

"He'll get over this when he gets older," Thomas said. I agreed.

But now, as I slipped on a jacket and left with the officer and Floyd, I wasn't so sure. Not that he was a bad boy. But our neighborhood was one of the toughest in the city, and now Floyd seemed marked as a part of it. All the way to the precinct station, I asked myself if Floyd could come back from this start in life; if he'd fight back and become the person I knew he was.

Floyd didn't do anything but hang his head in shame while he went through the police routine. But I felt if somebody held out a helping hand, he would grab it. So that afternoon I set the wheels in motion to tackle Floyd's problem head-on. I talked to his school principal. He recommended a social worker. I didn't spare any details in telling about the boy I believed could be helped.

I told the social worker about the shell Floyd lived in, and how it had gotten worse when he started school. He stayed away from other children and didn't answer much when called on in class. When he fell behind in his studies, he became even more withdrawn. He was sure other children looked on him as a dunce. Soon he was finding ways to skip school completely.

With a large family to take care of, it wasn't easy to spend time on the problems of one child. Thomas worked long hours at the Fulton Fish Market as a truckman's helper, and I tried to add to the family income by going out as a domestic as often as I could. I kept in touch with the teachers and the truant officer, but Floyd still had too many chances to play hooky.

My other children weren't like that. They went to school willingly, played street games with their many friends, and babbled happily. Their brother, meanwhile, would be wandering all over Brooklyn, visiting the Prospect Park Zoo or meandering, all by himself, along the beach at Coney Island. Sometimes he'd ride the subway for hours, or simply hide in somebody's cellar.

I tried everything I knew to get him back to school—rewards, extra kindness, punishment. He would promise faithfully to be good, and I always believed him because it really hurt him to cause us trouble. But the promises didn't last more than a week or so. Then he'd be off roaming again. Once he was so ashamed at breaking his word that he stayed away all night and really terrified us.

Floyd Gets Into Trouble

During those years, many kids in the neighborhood joined street gangs and went out looking for excitement. Sometimes they got in serious trouble. I worried about my boys, fearful they might get mixed up with one of the gangs. For a long time, none did. I was grateful for this.

And then, of course, came that knock on the door by the policeman. Floyd, it turned out, had only "swiped" some fruit from a nearby market while with some other boys. But I told the social worker that I couldn't help thinking that this might be the beginning of his joining up with a gang.

After listening to my story and talking to Floyd, the social worker explained that my boy was emotionally disturbed. Floyd needed careful, individual attention. He couldn't get this in crowded Public School 93. And the big city gave him too many chances to hide from the tough parts of life.

Although Floyd couldn't read and could barely write his name, the worker told me that he had the potential to adjust rapidly. She also said that Floyd was not a rowdy or a troublemaker; his brush with the law was little more than mischief. She suggested that we send Floyd to a special school in the country.

The thought of sending Floyd away hurt me, but Thomas and I agreed it was the right thing to do.

The next day, I signed Floyd into the Wiltwyck School for Boys, a private institution at Esopus, N. Y., in the foothills of the Catskill Mountains, about 90 miles from our home. Floyd kicked up a fuss; he was sure that he was being sent to jail because of stealing fruit. His tears made our parting even sadder for me, but I didn't back down.

At Wiltwyck, Floyd stubbornly stuck to his ways. He didn't pay any attention in class and dodged the fun of sports and other out-of-class activities. But his teachers and superiors were very nice. They didn't force him. He'd go to classes, do his regular chores, and then he could roam as he pleased.

Most of the other kids played games, but Floyd took to wandering over the countryside, and that's when he made his biggest discovery. He'd never seen much of nature before. Where we lived in Brooklyn, even a sunset wasn't much, at least not when you watched it through the rusted girders of the old Lexington Avenue "el." And no one paid much attention to the hungry sparrows and pigeons that rummaged through the gutters for food. But in the Catskills, Floyd got to see magnificent sunsets, heard the songs of birds, and all the other wonderful things that God had put out there for us to see. He even experienced a kid's triumph of catching a snake!

I visited Floyd at Wiltwyck every other week, and once he'd made this big discovery about nature I looked forward to the trips, almost like a kid myself. I'd bring along a big picnic lunch—fried chicken, different kinds of sandwiches, and some of the other things I knew Floyd enjoyed—and Floyd would lead me to some little spot he liked on the hillside. We'd spread out the lunch, and Floyd would chatter happily while he munched. He pointed out different kinds of birds and told me about the trees around us.

During each of my visits, I'd stop at the school office for a report on how Floyd was doing. The news always cheered me up. His teachers told me about a big change in Floyd. He was taking part in class and doing well. They'd even got him interested in boxing. Floyd made sure the report was good because he seemed to know how much happier I was after my visits with him. One day he told me:

"This is like a different world up here, Mom. Why don't we move here to live?"

It was hard to explain to him why we couldn't.

"Well, some day I'm going to live in the country," he said, softly, "and I'm going to have a big

Floyd's boxing career was phenomenally successful until he met Ingemar Johansson; here's how he conquered his despair and came back from that stunning defeat farm all my own, and woods to walk in."

He seemed to set that as his goal right then and there.

Floyd spent about a year and a half at Wiltwyck, and when he came home I had no more trouble with him. He went to P.S. 614, a school that had a special vocational training program, and in his spare time he followed his brothers, Frank and Billy, who were amateur boxers, to the gym to watch them train. Before long his interest in boxing was all-out, and I tried to encourage it.

Floyd didn't need much of a push. Around the house, while the other kids would be playing music or dancing, Floyd would be shadowboxing in front of a mirror, pounding a pillow, or simply flicking his left hand at the light cord. Yet he didn't seem cut out for fighting. He was so gentle and didn't seem to be the kind that could hurt a man once he'd gotten the upper hand. But when Floyd started fighting, he rocketed to the top.

Wins Olympic Championship

When he was only 16, he won the New York and Eastern Golden Gloves titles. The next year, 1952, he won these titles again and went on to Helsinki, Finland, where he won the Olympic middleweight championship for the U.S.A. Can you imagine how I felt? There was my little problem boy standing on the Olympic victory pedestal for all the world to see!

Things didn't end there, of course. When he came back home and turned professional, sportswriters began predicting all sorts of wonderful things for him. Floyd didn't do anything to disappoint them. In 1956, when he was not yet 21, he became the youngest man ever to win the heavyweight championship. He knocked out Archie Moore.

I never expected any more problems with Floyd after that. As champion he began to take home big purses, $250,000 and $300,000 at times. He was so generous, too. He bought a big house in Mount Vernon, N. Y., for Thomas and me and the children. He bought another home for his wife Sandra and their children in Rockville Centre, N. Y. And he bought a restaurant for his brother Billy and set Frank up in a floor-polishing business. He told his other younger brothers and sisters that he'd help them go to college. Only if your family has been real poor can you know why all this seemed like a dream.

Then we all woke up. It was June 26, 1959, and Floyd was defending his title against Ingemar Johansson at Yankee Stadium. Everyone said Floyd was going to win easily. I think Floyd must have believed it, too. In the third round, though, Johansson took the championship away from Floyd. I was there at the ringside when it happened, and it was the most horrible moment of my life as I saw my boy knocked down seven times before the referee stopped the fight.

The boxing world was surprised by Floyd's defeat—but not as much as Floyd himself. When I talked to him after the fight, I saw that we had the same old problem on our hands. His quiet confidence, which had grown so well since his days at Wiltwyck, was gone.

I stayed with Floyd and Sandra for a week after the fight, hoping to cheer him up. But it was no use. Floyd hardly spoke to anybody. He pulled down the shades of the house and refused to go outdoors. He had his telephone number changed so he would not have to speak with friends.

Floyd hid in his shell until he went off to set up his training camp in the fall. He picked out a former country inn, tucked away in the hills of Newtown, Conn., about 65 miles from New York City. The place was like the beautiful countryside at Wiltwyck.

When I went to see Floyd at Newtown several weeks later, I noticed a big change. There in the country that he loved best his confidence seemed to return. He laughed and talked a lot, and he took me for a stroll down the wooded paths just like in the old days.

Press Picks Johansson

Floyd stayed in the Newtown hills for nine months, figuring out his next fight against Johansson. Few people gave him a chance to win, but that seemed to make the challenge so much more important to Floyd. Sportswriters wrote that his rise to the world championship had been some sort of a freak. They called him a "cheese" champion and wrote that Johansson's right hand would send him away once and for all. They even criticized his quiet retreat, which was quite different from the luxurious resort where Johansson trained.

Floyd's camp was just the setting he needed, however. The villagers of Newtown, like the folks at Wiltwyck, helped him build up his confidence. They invited him to talk to their youth groups—the Little League and such. They waved to him like old friends as he chugged along the back lanes, doing his roadwork. Many prayed with him every Sunday at St. Rose Roman Catholic Church.

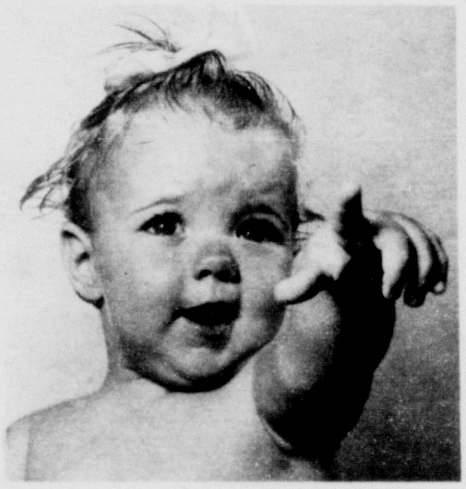

On June 20, Floyd drove down from Newtown to the Polo Grounds in New York City. I saw him before the fight, and when he gave me that little half smile of his I knew what was going to happen. And it did—in the fifth round. Floyd was champion again.

That was a comeback the whole world knows about. But I don't think it could have been possible without that first comeback a long time ago.

A FILM HERO FIGHTS FOR BETTER SCHOOLS

When Robert Ryan and his neighbors found local education inadequate, they opened their own classrooms

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

IN THE DAYS of the Old West, if citizens of a new town wanted a school they got together and built one, then wrote East for a teacher, levied taxes to cover expenses, and were in business.

The situation wasn't quite the same when actor Robert Ryan saw his older boy approach school age—but in a way the problem wasn't so different, either.

As Bob puts it: "Some years ago, my wife Jessica and I were terribly upset about our schools. Thanks to the postwar crop of babies and the shortage of teachers and buildings, particularly in the rapidly growing San Fernando Valley area where we then lived, the elementary-school situation was deplorable: split shifts, up to 60 children in each class. I had the feeling no child had a chance to learn much."

The Ryans scouted all the private schools in the vicinity as well. What they found was not encouraging. The more expensive schools were too snobbish for their tastes, most of the others were either as overcrowded as public schools, scholastically worse off, or both.

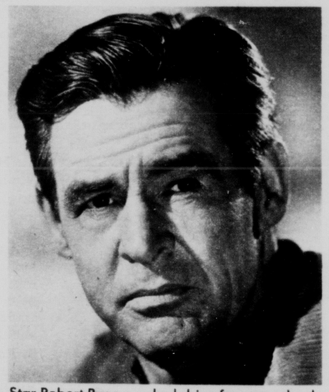

"What are we going to do?" Jessica asked desperately.

"There's only one thing we can do," Bob replied. "Move."

"I have a better idea," said Jessica after thinking about it a few minutes. "We'll start our own school."

Bob laughed off the idea, convinced he'd hear no more about it. But he had underestimated his wife. On her own, she talked to their neighbors about the idea, and enough of them showed an interest to call a meeting.

"When I saw all those eager faces," Bob recalls, "I thought we had our problem licked. I was wrong. It took three nightmarish years to get over the hurdles. Once we were on the verge of closing the school.

Star Robert Ryan sparked drive for new school.

It's something of a miracle we survived."

What he modestly failed to say was that for three years he devoted so much time to the project that he had to forego two pictures for every one he was able to make!

The first school meeting was a pretty fair indication of things to come. Out of 50 couples, only two—besides the Ryans—were willing to go along with the idea: Sidney Harmon and his wife (he produced Bob's "God's Little Acre" and "Day of the Outlaw") and the Ross Cabeens. Cabeen is one of the West's foremost geologists.

Their biggest problems, says Bob, who succeeded his wife as president of the school, were money, personnel, site, hysterical parents, and maladjusted children.

"We've solved them all but one," he grins. "Money. We're still in the red and liable to stay there for a while."

This problem was particularly acute because the school isn't in a wealthy, fashionable neighborhood. Most students come from what Bob describes as a "middle-middle class" district. Consequently, the $700 annual tuition agreed on by the board imposed real hardship on most parents. Says Bob: "It's a credit to them that they were willing to make sacrifices to help their children get a good education."

Even so, each year the school found itself about $5,000 in the red, which was covered by voluntary contributions. Bob won't say how much he himself contributed, but it reportedly was considerable.

Another major problem was finding a building. Since the school was to open with only 12 students, they didn't need a big place. Most of the first-semester tuition went into salaries, supplies, lawyer's fees, and other organizational expenditures.

After searching the neighborhood for weeks, Bob finally found a building, formerly a synagogue, which could be rented for less than $50 a month. The board named it the Oakwood School, after a famous Quaker school in Sidney Harmon's home town, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The next problem was teachers. "Most private schools can't offer pension plans or any of the other benefits and securities provided by public schools, nor pay as much," Bob explained. "We could pay even less!" As a result, they got all the wrong people.

ANOTHER DRAWBACK was the emotionally and physically handicapped children brought to the school by parents seeking the kind of treatment their youngsters couldn't get in public schools. "We struggled along with them for three years," Bob recalls, "but it just couldn't work in with our plans to make it an exceptional school for exceptional children."

Eventually, each child had to undergo extensive physical, aptitude, and psychological tests before he was accepted.

In spite of financial difficulties from the beginning, a scholarship fund was established to help gifted children whose parents couldn't afford any tuition payment.

During the first three years, as enrollment increased to 50 students, the synagogue building could no longer provide enough space. So parents offered whatever space they had in their own homes.

Ryan's "exercise shack," on the back of his property, became the first-grade room. "All in all," he remembers, "we were divided into five places. The city officials were never sure where we held our classes."

COPING WITH city, county, and state school boards took much of Bob's time once he found himself appointed the school's representative on civic matters. So did finding a new site when it was decided they had to build if they were to stay in business.

After an extensive real-estate hunt, Bob and Jessica found what they considered an ideal location at an unusually low price. Just why the three acres were so reasonable they found out only later: they had been condemned!

"During the storms of 1938, the whole area was flooded," Bob declared. "But investigation revealed that with all the control work that had been done since then, the flood danger no longer existed. All I had to do was to convince the authorities."

And all that took was a year! With the money he could have earned in the time he spent running back and forth to City Hall, he could have contributed a block on Wilshire Boulevard!

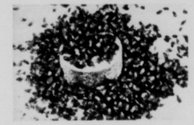

Nevertheless, by the time Bob went to New York on a personal-appearance tour shortly after the first new building was completed, the rapidly diminishing student body all but convinced him and other founders to scrap the project.

The day before Bob's scheduled return to the West Coast, one of the parents told him of a rumor that Marie Spottswood, director of a school in New York, was about to quit after 21 years.

Knowing she was considered one of the top educators in the country, Bob scoffed at the idea of even approaching her. "She'd just laugh at me!" he replied.

"So what do you have to lose?" the persistent mother replied.

"Nothing," admitted Bob, who was convinced that unless a miracle happened soon the school would have to close anyway.

Postponing his return, he went to see Miss Spottswood. He didn't beat around the bush, either.

"How would you like to be head of a school in the San Fernando Valley? Before you answer, let me tell you we don't pay much, we have an inadequate staff, and I doubt we can go on much longer. Are you interested?"

"Tell me more," she replied.

"More? What else do you want to know?"

"How and why the school was started, how much you can pay, and just how many students there are."

AFTER BOB had answered these and more questions, she still had a final inquiry. "To whom am I responsible?"

"You mean you want to be boss?"

"That's the idea," she agreed.

"The place is all yours," he assured her. "I promise you, no one will interfere."

Bob even suggested she come out and take a look at the school herself, with a return ticket provided if she didn't want to stay. Like Caesar, she came, she saw, and she conquered.

Miss Spottswood's first move was to turn away all children who were unable to meet the new academic standards she set for the school—and the standards grew till the Oakwood School is now considered one of the best, scholastically, in the West. She gradually replaced most of the teachers and hired new ones.

"The people she hired had to be idealists, to work for what we could pay and still have the qualities Miss Spottswood demands," Bob reports. "Not all the teachers worked full time."

Miss Spottswood didn't become discouraged when, thanks to her rigid standards and strict discipline, enrollment fell so low again it seemed the school would have to close. But it picked up quickly once her approach—a combination of progressive and traditional education which she simply describes as "modern"—started paying dividends.

HOW THE SCHOOL'S reputation grew was evident from the number of teachers from all over California who came to observe it.

Three new buildings had to be added to accommodate the 90 students. As before, the school starts at kindergarten and goes through the sixth grade. However, standards have now risen so high that two out of three flunk the entrance examinations.

What's the ultimate plan for the school, and Bob Ryan's participation in particular?

"Timothy and Cheney are in high school now, but my youngest—Lisa, 8—still attends Oakwood. But even when she graduates, I feel that after eight years of hard work I'm too interested in the project to give it up, ever," Bob explains.

"As for the school, we have two ultimate goals: to establish a good school for no more than 125 exceptional students. This may not seem like much considering the 750,000 people now living in the San Fernando Valley. Yet we feel if even 50 out of the 125 really turn out to be exceptional, we'll have done a great service to our community.

"Also, we hope the school will serve as a teachers' training ground. So, you see, we have plenty to work for in the future, regardless whose children we teach."

An idealist's point of view? Certainly.

But without it the Oakwood School wouldn't exist. Chances are it never would have been born.

Mind-Reading Trick

By Marjorie Stewart

In advance, select a friend to work with you on this trick. Pick out a bookshelf having four shelves or a chest with four drawers. Name the drawers or shelves with your helper—starting from the top down—as Ready, Already, All Right, and Come On.

Now, to do the trick: your friend asks one of the boys or girls present to select a shelf and then calls out to you in the next room, "Ready" (if top shelf), or "Already" (if second shelf), etc. You appear to concentrate and then "read" your friend's mind by correctly identifying the shelf or drawer, as the case may be.

Guessing Gum

By Ida M. Pardue

Here's a good game to play, and you won't need a prize because each person gets one—a stick of gum!

Buy several packages of chewing gum—as many different flavors as possible. Put one stick for each player into a bag.

Players form a circle. Hand the bag to one player, who begins by naming a gum flavor out loud—spearmint, for instance—and then takes out a stick without peeking. If it's not the right flavor, the stick goes back into the bag and the turn is lost. The first player who draws the gum he names must turn to his partner and chew it without giggling (no matter what the other player does) for one minute. If he succeeds, he stays in the game. If not, he's out.

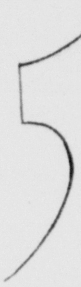

Wild Spaceship

By Mabel Inglin

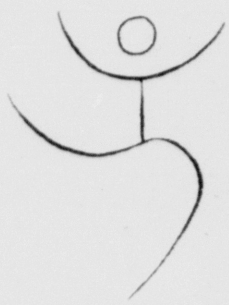

The players form a circle, holding hands tightly. The "spaceship" is in the center. He walks around, checking handclasps and trying to break out. He must keep going around the circle until he can break through. If he is alert and springs a surprise move, he will be successful. When he breaks through, everyone must chase him, and the one who catches him is the next "spaceship."

DANGER! 'SWIMMER'S EAR' OFTEN CAUSES DIZZINESS, BUZZING, BLOCKED EARS

New medical formula prevents trapped water in ears by removing hidden wax

Why is it sometimes so hard to get water out of your ears after swimming or showering? Why, in spite of all your thumping and foot pounding?

The reason is often simple—wax in one or both ears, buried in the ear canal. Water gets behind this wax and it is trapped. It makes your ears feel blocked and buzzing. When you are in swimming, dizziness may result.

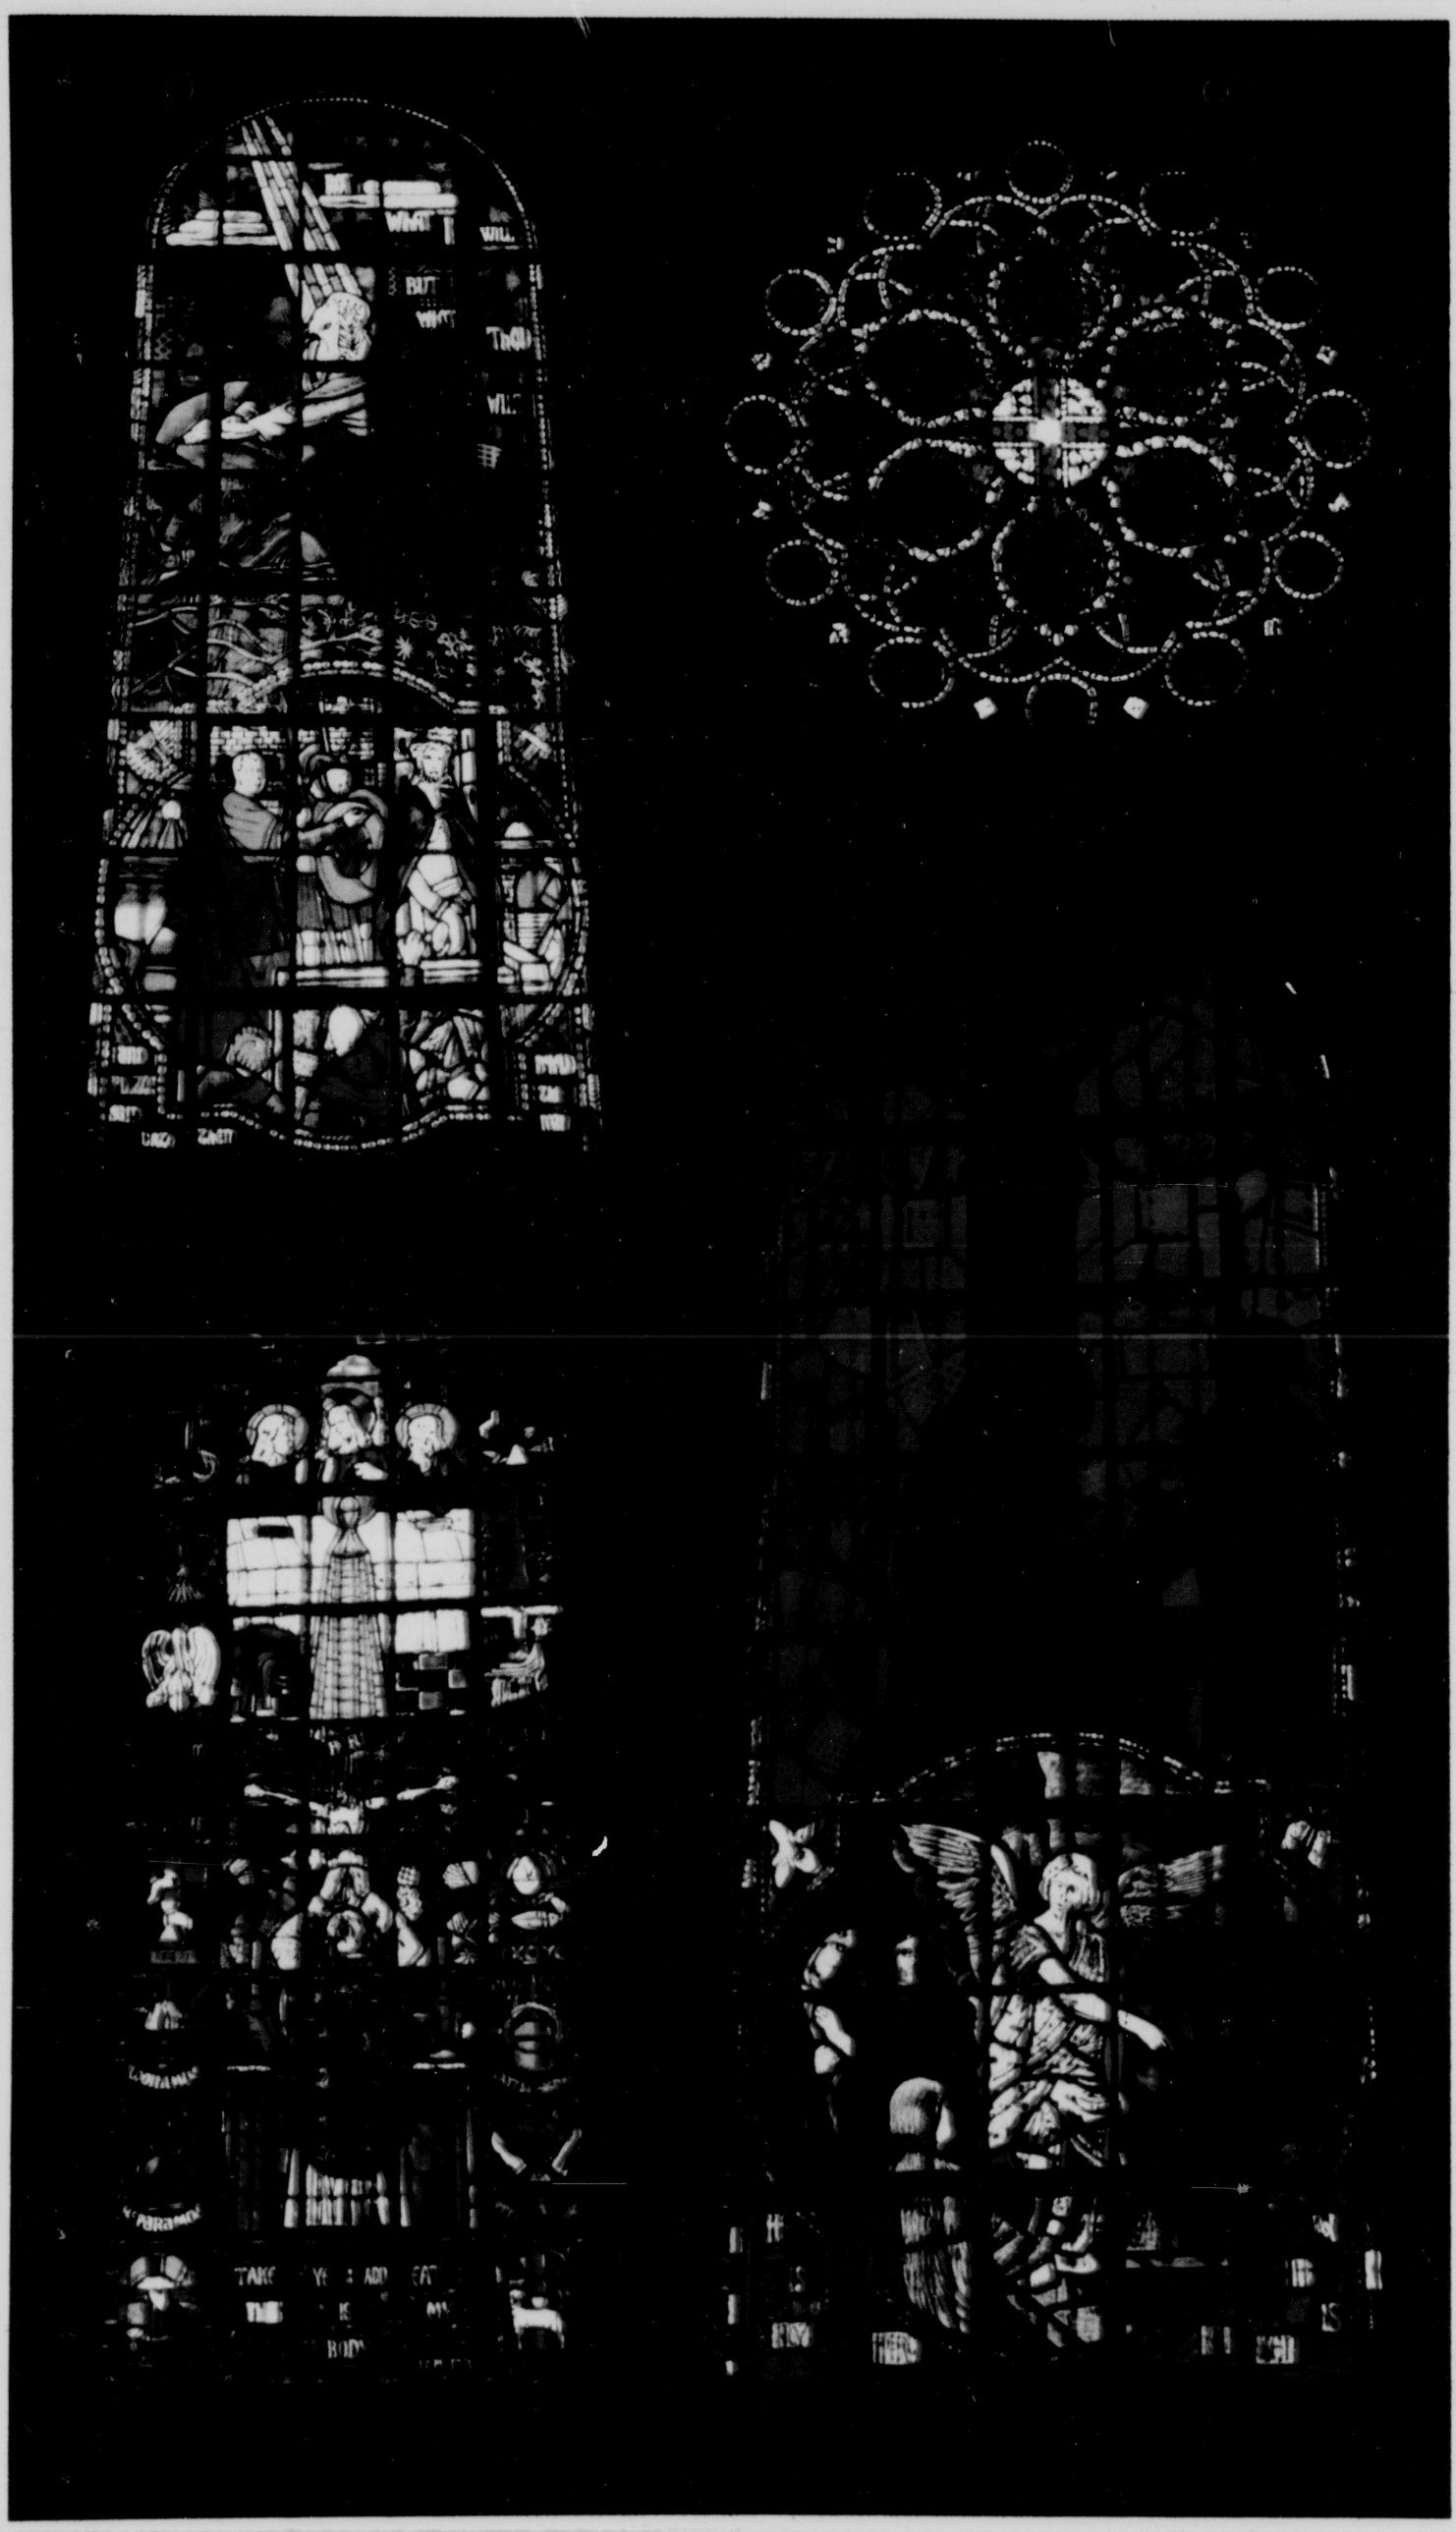

To keep out the water, you must keep out the ear wax. And now, for the first time, with New Formula Kerid® Drops, you can get rid of this wax in minutes—without the pain of instruments.

The ingredients in Kerid have been medically tested with remarkable results.

Don't risk "swimmer's ear." Don't chance blocked, buzzing ears, or dizziness while swimming. Get New Formula Kerid Drops, and feel the difference it makes.

The Good Thief and the Gentle Forger

By BOB DRISCOLL

DANNEMORA PRISON in New York state was like all prisons to convicted forger Carmelo Soraci in 1940—a bleak limbo void of hope or identity.

But he was glad he was being transferred there from Sing Sing. Some priest had heard Soraci was an "artist"—not with pen and check but with brush and paints—and wanted him to help build a chapel. In prison parlance, it was a "good deal," a chance to dodge backbreaking work. Nothing more, prison-wise Soraci figured.

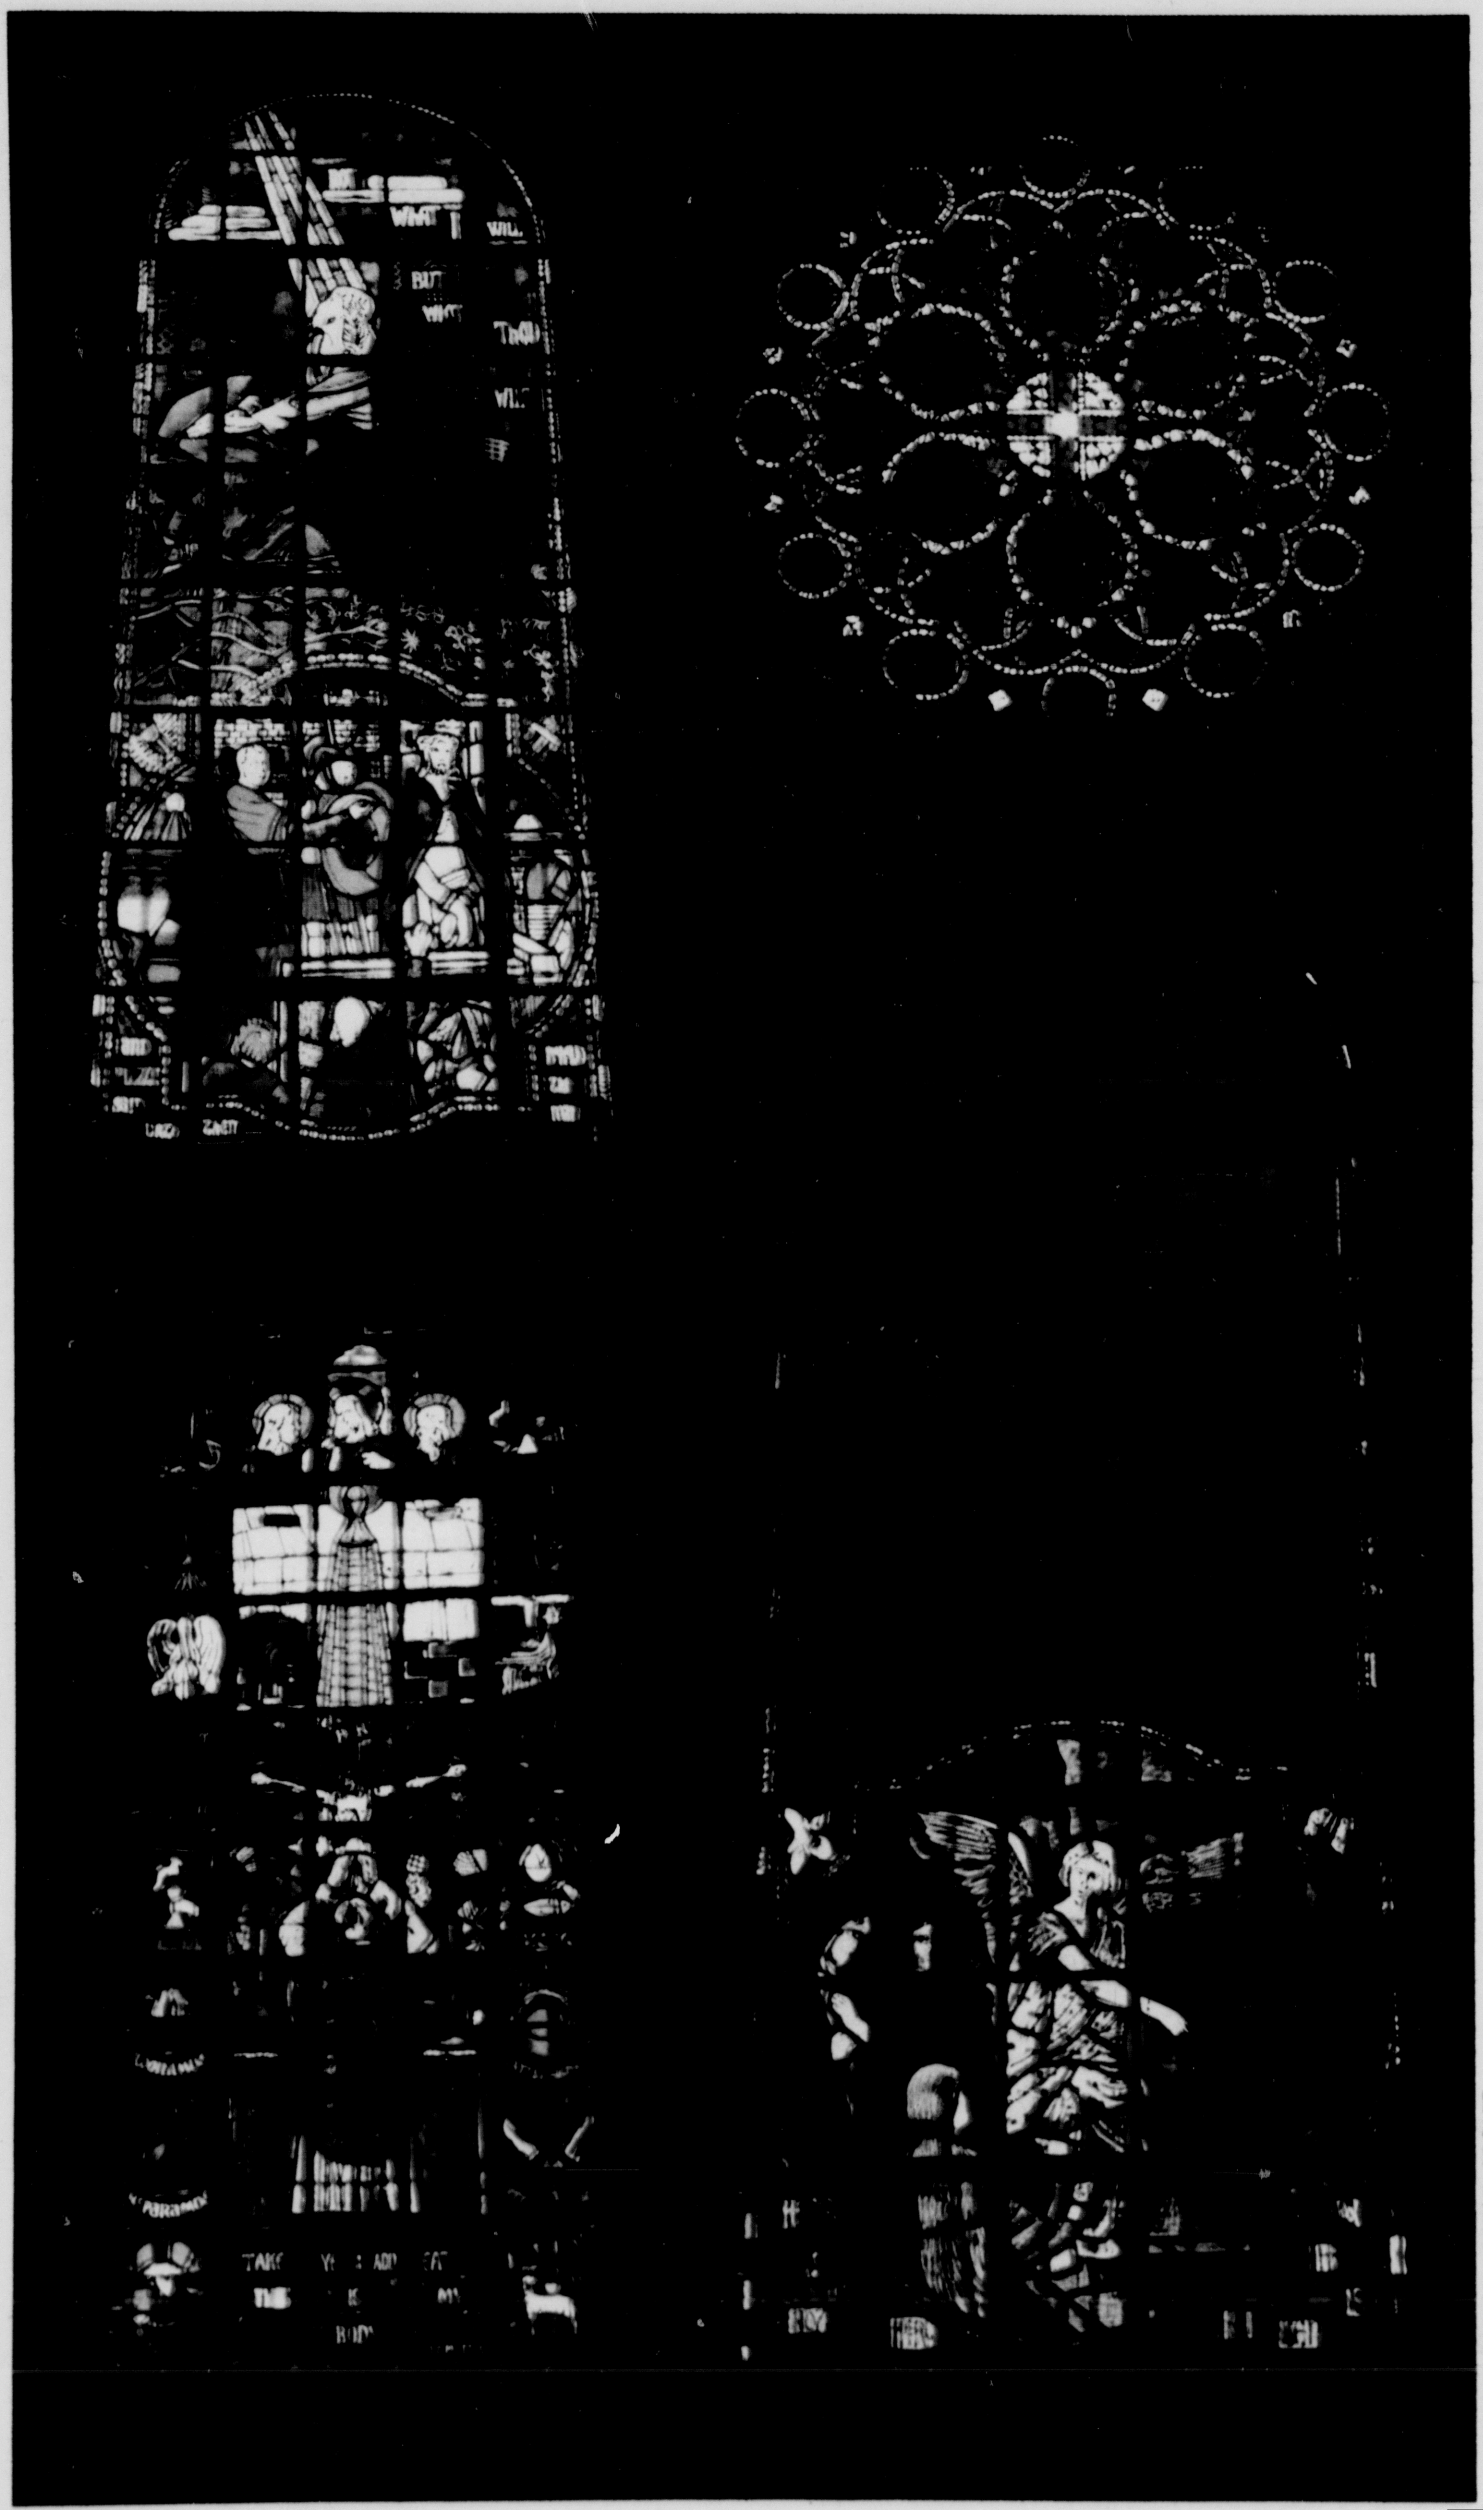

Father Ambrose Hyland was like all prison chaplains—eager, hopeful, trying to make life a little more meaningful for caged men. Soraci listened to him respectfully but not without cynicism.

"I want to give Dannemora a chapel, Carmelo. One dedicated to St. Dismas, 'The Good Thief' who died on the cross next to Jesus. I want you to do the murals. Of course, we don't have any money . . ."

The cynicism was visible now in a bitter smile on Carmelo's face. Why had he even hoped he'd get a chance to play artist? Since he was a kid, he'd been driven by a love of art and always frustrated. The depression had cheated him of a chance to study, and his own weaknesses and needs had put him behind bars at 18. Now art again had been held out to him, then snatched away.

Father Hyland saw the disappointment. "Carmelo, this St. Dismas lived a life of crime; he was without hope; yet Jesus

Carmelo Soraci's windows in Sing Sing chapels include gem-like rose window (top right), and (in clockwise order) the Crucifixion with scene at Christ's tomb, the Holy Eucharist, and Christ in the Garden and His betrayal.

Carmelo Soraci's windows in Sing Sing chapels include gem-like rose window (top right), and (in clockwise order) the Crucifixion with scene at Christ's tomb, the Holy Eucharist, and Christ in the Garden and His betrayal.

Here is a profile of Carmelo Soraci, once locked behind the bars of prison and his own cynicism; then a wise chaplain freed him from both and brought beauty to gray penitentiaries reached out to him when things were darkest. He will to us, too."

Well, Carmelo figured, what can a guy like me lose? With Father Hyland, he plotted a way to raise funds—the way he knew best. Using a blank check, Carmelo "forged" it for $50,000, signing it, "The People of the World."

It was a publicity stunt, of course, and a good one. Within three months, charitable persons from all over the country had "made good" the check, some with notes saying, "I am one of 'The People of the World' for whom you signed the check, so I feel obligated."

Soraci was almost beginning to believe in life again as he started, at last, on his real work, painting the chapel. The first mural was to be St. Dismas on the cross. Carpenters fashioned a cross, and an inmate posed. But Soraci's sketches were stiff and unnatural.

"I was ready to give up," he recalls, "when I thought—'Why, St. Dismas, why?' Then I knew why. The model was propped up on the cross by a barrel. The body muscles were slack, soft. I kicked away the barrel, and the model pulled tight in his bonds, his tendons taut. I sketched the vivid lines quickly, and in minutes had the drawing."

"Wonderful!" Father Hyland said. "Now start on the Stations of the Cross in stained glass."

"But I never worked in glass!"

"Better learn— no more money."

FATHER HYLAND prevailed on a New York expert to give Carmelo a two-week course in an intricate craft passed down from father to son for centuries. Carmelo, once the cynic and self-doubter, approached the impossible with quiet assurance. Four years later, he finished the giant project. Appraisers from Rambusch and Co., which had furnished the teacher-expert, valued the windows at $150,000.

"A 'miracle'!" Father Hyland told Carmelo. "And we'll have a second 'miracle,' Carmelo—you'll see!"

Carmelo didn't understand, but he believed this time.

Carmelo was transferred back to Sing Sing. He executed 10 full-sized windows there in the Catholic and Protestant chapels in addition to several smaller insets, marvels of workmanship, each constructed of 3,000 minute splinters of glass in mosaic fashion. This work, too, was valued at $150,000.

In 1949, Carmelo was paroled. He entered the free world full of faith in his tomorrows, and for a time that faith was justified.

"But parole isn't real freedom," Carmelo explains. "I worked for Rambusch part-time, and even built my own business. Then I fell in love. I got married without consulting my parole officer. That's a violation, and I went back to Sing Sing—after 10 years of freedom."

WHEN THE gates closed again, Carmelo, whose greatest crime was forgeries totaling $66, had every right to sink into the cynicism of years before. Instead, he went to the chapel where his windows reflect the glory of God. In their jewel-like light, he prayed.

Outside, people were fighting for the man who could only pray—attorney William J. Hiller, Sing Sing chaplain Father McKinney, a big New York newspaper. Finally, Judge Edward Thompson, whose jurisdiction Soraci came under, visited Sing Sing to see the prisoner's work. When the judge left, he was willing to recognize Soraci as a rare man, one who had found faith where so many others lose it.

Last February, Soraci was declared a free man. He is back with his wife and the art work he loves.

"I know now what Father Hyland meant when he talked about that 'second miracle,'" Soraci says. "He wanted it for me, my freedom. I'd like to think there will be other 'miracles' from those chapel windows. Maybe they'll give inspiration to some hopeless guy, as they did to me, and start him on the way back to freedom."
